Borough Hopes To Have Rent-Control in Effect by September 1

A rent-control ordinance for the Borough will be introduced by Council at a special meeting next Monday at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall. Mayor Robert W. Cawley said this week that he's not sure when the public hearing will be held because of vacation schedules, but he hopes the ordinance can go into effect well before September 1, to catch as many leases as possible.

Borough officials, trying for a fair answer to the question of rent control, have been studying a survey they commissioned this spring.

Another survey of Princeton housing? Yes, but somewhat different from the others.

It was designed by two Princeton residents (John M. Fenton and Ellen Levine) who have experience in surveys, examined by Charles Roll whose political Surveys and Analyses is based in Princeton and conducted both by telephone and in person, by volunteers who have lived in the community and who were able, in some cases, to elicit replies from people who might have been reluctant to answer questions from a more impersonal interviewer.

The most surprising thing revealed by this survey is what Mr. Fenton and Mrs. Levine call "the unexpected plight of the renter in the middle."

It's the middle-aged, middle-income, middle-sized family that seems to be suffering most under the Borough's housing pressures.

Worried about rents they think are too high, unable to find bigger quarters for growing children, more apt to complain to the landlord (and less likely to get results), they are also the ones who fear most that they may be driven out of Princeton by housing problems.

It's almost a cliche to say that the elderly and the very young are those most penalized by the rental situation. But the survey found that renters over the age of 60 are the most content of all groups with the housing they have. The second most-satisfied is the under 30 group.

Single people, the widowed and those with small families are much more satisfied with their situation than are the married, the divorced or those with large families. And to no one's surprise, black respondents were unhappier than whites, and more fearful that they'd be forced to move out of Princeton; in fact the dissatisfaction rate was three times that of whites who were interviewed and the worry about having to leave, twice as great.

Black renters — the survey calls them "non-whites" — are concentrated in the lower income and rental levels and whites are in the middle. There are fewer good rentals for blacks than for whites, and although cost is a factor, there is greater discrepancy in the quality of housing available to each group, the survey found.

Of all the Borough's renters, the happiest are those who live in

BOROUGH CONCERNED About Landlord Retaliation. Retaliation by landlords against tenants who complain is something the Borough is "very much concerned" about, warned Mayor Robert W. Cawley at Council's July meeting Tuesday night. An anti-retaliation clause, he said, will probably be incorporated into the Borough's forthcoming rent-control ordinance. (See "Cover," this issue, Town Topics)

At least two Borough residents have been, in effect, evicted because they spoke out in favor of rent control, revealed Councilman Martin P. Lombardo.

He said he had seen two eviction notices. Rent increases of "75 to 100 percent", he said, had served as evictions, and he added that the Borough will help such tenants in any legal action.

Two Borough properties have been recommended by the auditor for foreclosure for non-payment of taxes. One is the unfinished building at 363 Nassau, now owned by James W. Reedy. It was started by Timothy Sheehan. Tax collector Lawrence Patterson said its back taxes are about $21,000.

The second property is the old trolley line — "The New Jersey and Pennsylvania Traction Company" on Elm Road. Its delinquency is for 1965 curb assessments.

Council passed, 4-1 (Mr. Lombardo voting "no," Councilman Joseph Moore absent), the ordinance increasing to 21 the number of ten-hour parking meters in the Witherspoon Street lot. The 21 are new spaces that will emerge as the Borough develops the $9,400 worth of property bought from Public Service. The parcel in question adjoins the public library.

Mayor Cawley praised Magistrate Theodore T. Tams for 16 years of service on the Borough bench. "He brought dignity and made innovations," the mayor said, "his voluntary probation program holds high hopes for the rehabilitation of criminals."

Council then formally named Philip S. Carchman magistrate to succeed Mr. Tams. He will begin his new duties next Monday. Judge Tams has been appointed to the Mercer County bench.

The state has approved $10,000 toward reconstruction of Washington Road. The money will be put in a kitty toward the total of $34,000, with the hope that the state will add some more in '74.

PARENTS WIN SUPPORT In W. Windsor School Dispute. A group of parents attempting to have the West Windsor-Plainsboro Regional School board change its newly adopted policy on busing has won the moral but not the monetary support of the Township Committee.

At its meeting Monday night the Committee voted to "cooperate" with the school board in resolving the issue over whether children in second, third and fourth grades living 1.7 miles or less to school should have to walk. Those living further away would be bused.

A BURNED-OUT CASE: It was almost three and one-half years ago (February, 1970) that the house at 29 Bank Street was gutted by fire. In the months since then, neighbors have protested that the ruin was an "attractive nuisance" to children at play, was a possible hazard because of loose boards and served as a snug harbor for too many stray cats. This week, the owner, Dr. Donald Pickering, had the remains razed. The office building owned by Dr. Pickering, which faces Chambers Street and backs up to 29 Bank, is visible in the rear.

However, Mayor Melvin C. Fleiman indicated that the township will not subsidize school busing with municipal money, a solution asked by the parents group.

A group of about 150 parents living in the Princeton Ivy, Princeton Ivy East, Sherbrooke and Colonial Park developments is hoping to force the school board to reverse its new policy.

"One point seven miles is not a safe distance for children that age to walk," commented Richard Howard, a spokesman for the group, which wants the limit reduced to a mile.

March is Planned. The parents plan to circulate petitions in the neighborhoods, and this Monday will stage a march to the school to demonstrate how long it takes to walk 1.7 miles. Mr. Howard told committee that a study by the group had shown it took an adult 40 minutes to walk this distance.

"We are more concerned with the amount of time that a child will be exposed to the elements, under this policy, than we are with the distance, he or she must walk," Mr. Howard added.

The parents claim that 1.7 miles is an arbitrary distance, chosen without regard to children's health and safety and that the board deceived citizens by saying the revised policy would save the school district money.

The board has said that the 1.7 figure is a compromise between the walking distance set by the state (anything under two miles for elementary school children) and the distance the board had previously used, 1.5 miles.

Although committee passed the resolution to help out, it was not immediately known what form its aid would take.

WOMAN IS STRUCK Crossing Nassau Street. Mrs. Alice R. Peattie, 39, 50 Overbrook Drive, was admitted to Princeton Medical Center Thursday morning with a broken right knee and left arm, after she was struck by a car as she attempted to cross Nassau Street at Witherspoon.

Ptl. David Alston issued her a summons for crossing a roadway against a "stop" signal.

Ptl. Alston's investigation revealed that Mrs. Peattie was in the crosswalk when she started quickly across the street while the signal was red for Witherspoon Street traffic. As she came from behind two buses that were parked in the bus stop on Nassau Street, she was struck by a car operated by Gary R. DeGrange, 18, of Titusville.

Ptl. Alston quoted the driver as saying he was going about 10 to 15 miles an hour and as he started to drive past the buses, "all of a sudden she just popped out. I tried to stop but it was no use."

Mr. Peattie told police that his wife had been hurrying across the street to get a bus ticket. "I saw the car coming and shouted to her to stop but it was too late. The car didn't have enough time to stop," he told police.

Rent Control

public housing: 100 percent reported they were satisfied. The next highest group are those who rent from the University: 87 percent of these are content. Renters in private open market housing reported a 70 percent satisfaction.

Dissatisfaction at the low-income level (and 65 percent in this bracket are unhappy) stems chiefly from the quality of housing. Dissatisfaction in the middle-income bracket is due to high rents and the fact that larger units just aren't available.

People who earn $5,000 a year and those who earn between $10,000 and $15,000 are the ones most worried about having to move out of the community because of unsatisfactory housing.

Who are these renters, the survey asked?

Contrary to what most Princeton residents believe, they aren't chiefly transients. Half the renters interviewed had lived in town over ten years and only one-quarter had arrived in the past three years. They tend to be single, divorced or separated: only 47 percent are married.

Most definitely, they are not the Borough's affluent. The median income of the Borough's rental population is $9,200, contrasted to a $13,000 median for the Borough overall, as reported in the 1970 census.

Neither are they commuters: 83 percent report that the head of the household works in Princeton, and only eight percent say they work outside Mercer County.

How Much Rent? Two-thirds of the Borough's rental units are in the open market, privately owned, renting at a median monthly rental of $169. For University housing, the median is $220. (Mr. Fenton and Mrs. Levine cite the 1970 Sternlieb housing report which gave $159 as the median for all Borough rentals, and quote their own figure for all rentals three years later, as $167.)

Rentals hit hardest at people in the 30-44 age bracket who have growing kids still living at home. For this age group, the median rent is $205 a month.

Surprisingly, the lowest rentals in the open market are those paid by the elderly: widowed people, living alone, pay $131 a month, median rent. Incidentally, one - quarter of the elderly renters interviewed, refused to tell the interviewer how much rent they pay.)

A typical Borough rental unit has three or four rooms, plus bathroom. Only one renter in five has six or more rooms. Fewer than one in five — 17 percent — rent a one-family house, and 60 percent live in buildings that have three or more apartments.

The two youngest age groups — up to the age of 44 — are lumped in the middle-and-upper rental category. The survey points out a fact peculiar to Princeton and similar college towns: several graduate students will pool their rental money and live together in a large house more expensive than any of the students could afford alone. (The University only provides housing for about half its 1,500 grad. students).

The survey suggests that because 10 percent of all renters have to pay utilities on top of rent, and must also rent parking space for about $10 a month, actual rental costs are higher than the rent itself. About one-third of the tenants (32 percent) have no written lease.

Have Borough rents been going up?

One third of the renters say they've had no increase since they moved to their present address, whenever that may have been.

Of those reporting increases,

- All have had at least an 11 percent increase in the past two years.
- Almost 60 percent have had three or more increases.
- One in 11 report an increase within the month before the interview. Projected, the survey says, this means 80 to 90 Borough renters had an increase in the period between mid March and mid April of this year.
- One-third of those reporting increases say they had one in the last six months, coinciding with Phase II when rents were theoretically frozen.
- Three fourths of the rental increases were in the last year.
- Almost one-fourth (23 percent) say the increase was 15 percent or more.
- Only 12 percent report that increases meant additional services, maintenance or facilities.
- Of those who were fearful about having to move out of town, 45 percent had had increases in the past year, and expected another.

Structure. The surveyors, working with Mr. Fenton and Mrs. Levine, chose 653 units at random across nine Borough election districts. District 10 consists largely of University students in dorms, and it was left out. Choir College and Seminary dorm students were also excluded.

These 653 units were checked against landlord registrations on file in Borough Hall, and 181 rental addresses then emerged as the "basic target." From this "target," 155 renters were interviewed, representing open-market renters, public housing renters, University renters.

To offset any bias that might result from using only registered voters, the surveyors chose 60 University graduate students, a group which has been, historically, not registered voters. Also, 15 families in the Lloyd Terrace and Clay Street housing projects and 19 families in the John-Witherspoon area were chosen, so the survey could find out in particular, what the rental problems of the black community were. The John - Witherspoon renters were visited in person.

University rentals constituted 25 percent of the sample, close to the actual proportion, according to the surveyors.

But Solution Possible. Princeton is still without a post office sub-station, but Postmaster Basil Ferrara said this week that he hopes to receive orders from his district office in Camden to re-advertise for bids.

The sub-station in the Princeton Shopping Center closed July 1 because its contractor lost the low bid to Mrs. Jessie Gaylord who offered her premises at 354 Ewing Street. The Township says she may need a use variance because 354 is in a residential zone, but she has not, so far, applied for the variance and has not opened her small building for sub-station operation.

Objections to establishment of a sub-station on Ewing poured in to Mr. Ferrara — and to Mrs. Gaylord — from many quarters of the community. The Princeton Regional Board of Education cited safety proolems of children walking to school and confronting post-ofice traffic. The Township's zoning officer, administrator and mayor, according to Mr. Ferrara, also have raised questions.

"We're not out to fight the board of education or the town," the postmaster said.

He added that several private citizens have offered to help him find a suitable location if the sub-station is re-advertised. The post office is not legally required to operate a station like this, Mr. Ferrara said, "and if a sub-station won't meet our budget, we won't open one at all."

SKILLMAN MAN DIES

In Mysterious Car Crash. New Jersey State Police and the Somerset County Medical Examiner this week were still at a loss in explaining the death of Louis P. Zapalac, 49, who was found collapsed in his car with the engine still running last Friday afternoon off Route 13 in Somerset County.

Police theorize that Mr. Zapalac, of Skillman Road, Skillman, had driven his 1972 Chrysler south on Route 206, turned right onto Route 13, and traveled west about 60 feet when his car suddenly swerved across the eastbound lane and came to rest on a bridge embankment.

Mr. Zapalac, an agricultural expert, was found at about 3:10 p.m., almost immediately after the crash, troopers say. The car was not seriously damaged, its engine was running, and Mr. Zapalac had no visible external injuries.

He was dead on arrival at Somerset County Hospital.

An autopsy performed Saturday was inconclusive, although the results did rule out a heart attack as the cause of death, police said.

Further Tests. Trooper Joseph Calotaro of the Princeton State Police Station investigated the accident. He said that further microscopic tests were being conducted.

Born and raised in Texas, Mr. Zapalac graduated from Texas A & M with a degree in agricultural education. From 1949 until April, 1972, he worked for American Cyanamid, rising from veterinary sales to marketing executive.

His assignments for Cyanamid included managing a cattle ranch and orange grove in Florida. He moved to Skillman while employed by that firm, and maintained his home there, even though his last assignment for the company was in Texas.

American Cyanamid officials believed he joined another agricultural firm after leaving Cyanamid, but the location of his new job was unknown.

American Cyanamid reported that Mr. Zapalac was married and had three children, Thomas, who would be 21 now, Mary, 20, and James, 10.

Details of the funeral and interment were not known.

FUNDS FOR DELAWARE-RARITAN CANAL COALITION: Arnold W. Rose, president of the Central Chapter of the New Jersey Society of Architects, presents a check for $500 to Lee Bullitt and Margen Penick, co-choirmen of the Delaware-Raritan Canal Coalition, which is interested in preserving the waterway as an historic site.

$500 IS DONATED

To Canal Coalition. The Central Chapter of the New Jersey Society of Architects has joined the battle to protect the Delaware-Raritan Canal from develoonment that would spoil its values as a historic site and recreational source.

It contributed $500 toward the work of the Delaware-Raritan Canal Coalition, a group of concerned citizens representing 77 civic and public service organizations in the 19 townships and 3 boroughs along the Canal.

In presenting the check, President Arnold W. Rose, of the firm of Merchant, Voorhees and Rose in New Brunswick, asked that the money be used for a publication to inform the general public about the Coalition and its objectives.

Lee Bullitt, speaking for the Coalition, described the group's plans to protect the historic 60-mile waterway and its environs from encroaching highways, high-density housing and commercial development.

The Canal has been designated a New Jersey Historic Site by Commissioner Richard J. Sullivan of the Department of Environmentol Protection and a recommendation to designate it a National Historic Site is pending in Washington, D.C.

The New Jersey Legislature has also shown its concern for the Canal in recent legislation creating a committee to study and develop means of protecting and maintaining the Canal and the lands through which it flows for the enjoyment and benefit of the citizens of the State.

STEREO IS TAKEN

From Battle Road Home. A stereo component valued at $250 was reported stolen last week from the home of Charles M. Burrill, 76 Battle Road.

Township police report that a garage door leading to the house had been forced to gain entry. The house was not ransacked, said police who added that it appears that the stereo was the only thing taken. Ptl. James Vandermark investigated.

TEENAGER CHARGED

With Marijuana Possession. Louis J. Del Bono Jr., 19, East Brunswick, has been charged by Township police with possession of under 25 grams of marijuana.

He was later released in his own recognizance, pending his appearance Thursday in Township court.

Del Bono was arrested at 1:50 the morning of July 4 while he sat with four other juveniles in a car parked near the boat house at Carnegie Lake. According to police, Ptl. Jerry Olredo and Ptl. Renn Kaminski, in making a routine check of the car, noticed some debris around the vehicle. Investigating further, they allegedly found smoking pipes inside the car.

The four juveniles were not charged and released.

MEETING TUESDAY

Of Recreation Board. The Joint Recreation Board will hold its monthly meeting Tuesday evening at 8:15 in Township Hall.

The effect of the past hot and humid days on pool receipts will be reflected in the budget report of executive director R. Donald Barr. In May, he said, pool receipts were running $5,000 behind that of the previous year. At the end of June, pool income was running $5,000 ahead. 'That's a pickup of $10,000 in one month,' he said.

ASSAULT CHARGE LODGED Against Trenton Man. Doreene Kovas, 20, of 39 Humbert Street, has signed complaint summonses against Jules Thompson, 24, of Trenton, charging him with assault with intent to kill and threat to take a life.

Thompson has been released by police in $500 bail, $250 on each charge. He is scheduled to appear in Borough court on Wednesday. Police, who offered no details, said that the alleged assault took place at the Humbert Street address.

ALEXANDER REPLACED On State Prison Board. Archibald S. Alexander Jr., Westcott Road, has charged that he was involuntarily removed from his appointed post on the State Board of Prison Trustees on June 30. Mr. Alexander, the newly-elected chairman of the board, said the move was made without reason.

An active Democrat, who has been critical of Gov. William T. Cahill's prison reform policies, Mr. Alexander said he was speaking out because he wanted to state "for the record," that "I am not departing voluntarily and I intend to maintain a very active interest in this area." He was notified of his removal by a letter from John J. Magovern, chairman of the State Board of Institutional Trustees.

Mr. Alexander commented that the Magovern letter gave no reason for the action. "It said that I was being rotated off the board — whatever that means," he added.

Defending the action, Mr. Magovern said that Mr. Alexander's most recent three-year time had "expired." "We do try to get different people involved so that we can have different points of view," he said. "Mr. Alexander has been on the board for nine years."

"I couldn't say that I have any particular criticism of Mr. Alexander," Mr. Magovern commented. "He was extremely active; he's creative and had a very active tenure.

Active Board Member. Mr. Alexander was indeed active. When the riots broke out at the Rahway prison around Thanksgiving, 1971, he spent many hours negotiating with the inmates and received a large share of the credit for heading off what might have become another Attica.

Later he issued a highly critical report detailing the Cahill administration's lack of response to 14 specific recommendations that grew out of talks between the inmates and a three man committee.

A fellow board member, Joseph Bergen, a Republican, commented on Mr. Alexander's departure, saying,

"I sort of requested it. When you are the party in control and you have someone who comes and contributes $2,000 to $3,000 to the Democratic candidate (Brendon T. Byrne) I don't see why he should be kept on."

Mr. Alexander will be replaced by another Princetonian, the Rev. James Steen, 29-year-old assistant rector at Trinity Church.

THEFTS HOLD STEADY At Community Park. Summer months are virtually open season for larcenies at Community Park and last week's list of stolen articles ranged from a wallet to a 1962 station wagon.

Township police urge those using the park to lock their cars and to lock their valuables in a locker while swimming. With the size of the crowds we've been getting, commented Donald Barr, recreation director, people have to use some common sense in protecting their valuables.

Ellen Beede of Freehold left her purse unattended for 30 minutes under a blanket Thursday while she went swimming. When she returned it was gone. She lost $40 and a $1,000 diamond ring.

The same day, Edward N. Kurns of Solebury had his car rifled while he was playing softball between 6:15 and 7:30. He lost $5 from a wallet, a $130 stereo player, passport and Princeton Bank and Trust checkbook. Police said a rear window of his convertible had been broken to get inside.

Lillian Vazakas of Belle Mead left her pocketbook covered with a beach towel Sunday while she went swimming in the pool. She lost $5 and her wallet which she valued at $6.

Russell Trenholme, 220-B Marshall Street, reported his station wagon had been stolen between 3:30 and 6:15 July 4 while it was parked in the Community Park pool lot. It was recovered Monday, undamaged, in Lawrence Township by Lawrence Township police.

Township juvenile officer Anthony Pinelli has charged two Trenton juveniles, 16 and 17, with the theft of two bicycles last week from Community Park.

In addition, he has charged six Princeton youths, ranging from 14 to 16, with juvenile delinquency. The charges stem from an incident in which the six allegedly shouted obscenities and hurled rocks and bottles at four people playing tennis at the Community Park Courts.

All have been released to their parents, pending action by a juvenile court.

Poe Field, Two. While playing soccer last week at Poe Field on the university campus, Alan Cohen, 24 Little Brook Road, left his wallet in his car.

When he returned, $8, his driver's license and identification cards were missing. His car had been left unlocked, police said.

ARSON IS POSSIBLE In Two Pennington Fires. State Police have labeled as suspicious two fires that broke out within an hour of each other early Monday morning in Pennington.

Firemen were first called out at 12:51 a.m. to quell a blaze in a storage shed behind their firehouse on Broemel Place. An hour later, they were battling a blaze that burned a

CRIME IS DOWN

But Bike Thefts Are Up. "Crime is down in the Borough for the first six months of 1973" observed Chief Michael Carnevale Tuesday.

Assaults are down, breaking and enterings are down but one area showing an increase is the number of bicycle thefts. Perhaps that is not too surprising for a community that has an estimated 15,000 bicycles (Borough and Township) but the frequency of thefts has the police vexed, nonetheless.

Nine bicycles were taken from the university campus recently, seven alone on June 26, Chief Carnevale reported. In all, 103 bikes have been stolen so far this year from the campus.

The chief added that he knows of five bicycles that have been stolen in the Borough in the past three days. To date, 62 bikes have been reported stolen this year in the Borough — only three of which have been recovered.

"We're looking into the thefts to see if some sort of pattern exists," Chief Carnevale said.

Two years ago, the Borough police introduced a free bicycle registration program to try to combat the number of thefts. Police stamp a number into the frame and then register it along with a description of the bike and the manufacturer's own serial number. So far, police have registered about 1,000 bicycles.

Any Princeton or campus bike owner can have his bicycle registered by Borough police without charge. Tom Hofgesang, Princeton High School senior who will enter college in the fall and is presently a trainee with the police department, registers bicycles on a continuing basis for the police, Chief Carnevale said.

ANTIQUE MUSKETS TAKEN

From Ivy Club. Two antique muskets, described by police as "priceless", were stolen last week from the Ivy Club, 43 Prospect Avenue.

Manager Prosper Aeschbacher, who reported the theft, told police that the muskets had been attached to a wall by wires which had been cut. Police report that there were no signs of forced entry.

The two Manlicher Flintlock rifles were donated to the Club by Rodman Wanamaker of Philadelphia. According to Chief Michael Carnevale, they had been made in the Tower of London and used during the American Revolution.

The police investigation is being continued by Det. Arthur Gallant.

BOROUGH YOUTH CHARGED

With Handbag Theft. A 16-year old Borough youth has been charged with the larceny last week of a women's handbag from a Princeton University office located at the second floor of 185 Nassau Street.

From information supplied by the victim, Det. Thomas Michaud picked up the youth Monday at the corner of John and Clay Streets. After being processed by Borough Juvenile Officer Douglas Watson, he was taken to the Mercer County Youth House in Trenton to WANT JAPANESE GUEST? For August Weekend. Japanese teachers who teach English to young Japanese pupils, will once again be in Princeton as they were last summer, and Princeton families are invited to open their homes for a weekend "homestay" August 4 and 5.

The visitors are here under the sponsorship of Princeton University's Office of Teacher Preparation. There are 40 of the Japanese teachers, but any one family is asked to invite only one. Arrangements may be made by calling 452-3336.

With the Japanese this summer the Office of Teacher Preparation will have post-doctoral scholars from the Soviet Union and various East European countries. They are here to hone their language skills before embarking on studies ni the United States.

All participants in the program will live in University dormitories and eat at the Student Center.

DIRECTOR IS NAMED For United Fund. The Rev. George. T Peters, has been named Executive Director of the Princeton Area United Community Fund. The announcement was made by Leslie Vivian, president of the 1973 Fund Mr. Peters succeeds Seymour Mandel who resigned in April of this year.

For the past seven years, Mr Peters has been an executive in the headquarters offices of the United Presbyterian Church U.S.A., with offices at 475 Riverside Drive, New York, where he had national programmatic responsibilities for the renewal of congregational life.

Prior to coming to New York in 1966, Mr Peters served four congregations in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania; Neenah, Wisconsin, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and most recently, in Burlingame, California, a suburb of San Francisco.

While in the parish ministry, Mr Peters headed committees of the church on refugee resettlement, church and society and was active in the civil rights movement. The nature of his work has involved him in fund raising of more than two and a half million dollars for program and capital improvements.

No stranger to Princeton, Mr Peters was graduated from Princeton Theological Seminary in 1949, and from the College of Wooster, Ohio in 1937. Born in Wheeling, West Virginia, Mr. Peters was granted the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity by Beaver College, Philadelphia, in 1949.

In 1972 Mr Peters, a widower, married Mrs. Robert (Marlys) Ferguson, widow of a classmate at Princeton Seminary. Mrs. Peters is Coordinator of Educational Services at the Princeton University Art Museum. They reside at 38 Longview Drive.

EIGHT ARE FINED In Borough Court. Eight Princeton area residents were fined Monday in Borough traffic court.

Ronald J. Tkacs, 17, 253 N. Harrison Street, and Robert H. Wells 16, Drakes Corner Road, were fined $35 and $15 for speeding. Mr Tkacs paid a second fine of $20 for driving on a learner's permit without the presence of a licensed driver. Also fined for speeding was Frances S. Livingston, 50, 15 Horner Lane, who paid $20.

For careless driving, Ariana Wittke, 47, 241 Russell Road, was fined $20. Orie Tuck, 67, 150 South Mill Road, Princeton Junction, charged with the same violation, had his fine suspended but was ordered to pay $10 court costs.

Rev. George T. Peters

Others: James S. Woodside, 19, 143 Riverside Drive, $16, red light; Alfredo Zullo, 68, 61 Clearview Avenue, suspended fine, $10 court costs, leaving his car engine running; and Richard Vaughan, 6, 46 Princeton Avenue, $20, passing an unloading school bus.

PHOTOS ON VIEW From Indonesia. Color photographs of Java, Cumatra and Bali are now on view at the Squibb Gallery, Lawrenceville Road, and will be on exhibition through Wednesday, August 1.

The exhibition is the work of Co Rentmeester, a native of Amsterdam, who has spent some time in Indonesia. A former Life Magazine photographer, he was named "Magazine Photographer of the Year" in 1972 by the University of Missouri School of Journalism.

The photos of Indonesia are very large — some as large as three by five feet. The photographs of Java depict the lives of the people, those of Bali show religion, culture and the arts and the photos of Sumatra are of wildlife and scenery.

Hours at the Squibb Gallery are 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

ACUPUNCTURE TOPIC Of Lawrence Meeting. Philip L. Kaplan of Trenton will be the guest speaker at the next meeting of the Senior Citizens Club of Lawrence Township to be held at 1 p.m. Tuesday, American Legion Headquarters (Post 414), 100 Berwyn Place.

Mr. Kaplan will relate his personal experience of treatments received and as being the first person discharged as cured from the New York Acupuncture Center.

Also at this meeting July birthday members will be honored and refreshments served. Final reservations for the annual picnic will be accepted by Sam Page, general chairman.

How Solar Eclipse Looked On Board 'Canberra'

PICTURE OF A PICTURE-TAKER: Abbot Low Moffat demonstrates the way he rigged his camera to make sure he and the eclipsing sun were in proper alignment for picture-taking. The paper tube caught the sun and channeled it to white pieces of paper fastened to the camera.

"I took a few pictures — and then I just stopped and looked and enjoyed it!"

Abbot Low Moffat says well, no, he isn't really a total-eclipse-of-the-sun hobbyist and is only an amateur at photography. But with his wife Marian he went to the west coast of Africa on the 16-day solar eclipse cruise of the liner "Canberra". He says it was his fourth total eclipse (starting in 1925) and he is impatiently waiting for his slides to come back so he can compare them with slides he took last summer at Prince Edward Island when he went north to see the 1972 eclipse. The fourth eclipse was the one in 1968, at Chincoteague.

The Moffats were among 1,900 passengers who signed on for the adventure. The "Canberra" left New York June 22 and the Moffats returned to their Princeton home last Sunday night. The eclipse was Saturday, June 30 from 10:27 a.m. to about 10:33 a.m.

"We had thought we could go right to the African coast and thereby miss both the cold Canary current clouds, and much of the dust," Mr. Moffat explains, "but there were no charts! And five feet of water, and the captain pointed out that we drew 35!"

"We woke up at midnight — clouds! We really thought we'd had it. Oh, it will burn off, the meteorologist said. And you know, as the eclipse began, the clouds did move off. Enough did remain to affect the outer corona during the eclipse, however."

1,900 Varieties? The passenger list was a tremendously varied one, the Moffats found, especially full of eager teenagers and college students. Many passengers were grandparents who had a covey of grand-children in tow, although the Moffats left their own grandchildren behind.

Almost every one of the 1,900 passengers was a photographer, and Mrs. Moffat recalls with a laugh that the weight of all that equipment nearly collapsed the stevedores right to the dock.

"Someone said we'd been sowing tripod seeds that sprouted during the night!" she smiles, "the decks were certainly jammed with tripods. You put them on deck the night before with your name, and they were ready the morning of the eclipse, although really the decks weren't all that crowded. The 'Canberra' is one of the largest passenger ships in the world."

Technique. Mr. Moffat used his Pentax, which has a 200mm lens. As a bon voyage gift, a kind son-in-law presented him with a telextender, which doubled the size of the extension to 400mm. Using high speed Ektachrome film (which he will have developed at ASA 400 instead of its rated 160), he opened the camera to 3.5, which figured out to 6.2 considering the telextender, and shot at 1/500.

To make sure camera and sun were properly aligned, he rolled small paper tubes (see photo) and attached them to his camera to focus the brilliant circle of the pre-eclipse sun on bits of white paper attached to the Pentax.

A small flashlight, painted with red nail polish to reduce glare, was used during the dark minutes of the eclipse so that Mr. Moffat could read his camera settings. Advice to cruise members, mailed out last February, reminded photographers of the beautiful visual effects of totality, and urged them to avoid powerful flashlights as though they were "new taxes!"

"The ship sat prefectly still for the eclipse — absolutely dead in the water," Mr. Moffat continues, "they turned off the electricity because generators would vibrate and affect our photography. No cooking, no air-conditioning. And TOTAL darkness for about half an hour."

"We had a panel of photography experts on board who lectured us and showed us slides taken in 1972," and Mr. Moffat quickly flips through the drawer of his own '72 eclipse slides, in excited anticipation of what '73 may look like.

College? Panels of experts were, in fact, a feature of the cruise. The Moffats heard astronaut Neil Armstrong talk about the science of the future, writer Isaac Azimov talk about the ancient view of the universe, the Copernican revolution and the present view of the universe.

Astronaut Scott Carpenter gave four lectures on his experiences in exploring space and sea. There were courses in celestial navigation, star identification sessions at night with astronomers like H. George Hamilton, who directs Fels Planetarium at the Franklin Institute.

In fact, the list of each day's activities reads like a college catalogue, or the prospectus for a lecture series.

"I wasn't aware, in this eclipse of the shadow bands that we've seen before," Mrs. Moffat muses, "I recall vividly that last year, you could see the shadow rushing across the sandflats — it was low tide — and how the gulls flew off as the shadow advanced!"

The bands are parallel lines that move across the landscape — or in the "Canberra's" case, seascape — just before the eclipse.

"And the sky was not so black as last year," she continues, "last year, during the eclipse, you could see the whole firmament—it was marvelous! This year, I think the only star I saw was Sirius."

Next? For next year's eclipse, the Moffats would have to travel to Indonesia and West Australia and just getting there would be quite a journey in itself. But perhaps. . . .

Puzzling, Talkative, Deft: 'The Philanthropist' Opens

"The Philanthropist", by Christopher Hampton, opened the Summer Intime's sixth season last week in Hamilton Murray Theatre, and will be repeated Thursday through Sunday of this week.

The play is sometimes puzzling, occasionally provoking, ultimately very rewarding. It has the virtue of making you care what happens to its people as you get to know them. It has deft twists, including sharp tension at the very beginning and the very end. And it is well acted.

The philanthropist of this "bourgeois comedy" is a young teacher of philology at an English university. Just as he enjoys any book he reads because of his interest in the words, the language used, so Philip likes people generally — at least he cannot actively dislike anyone.

It is hard for him to say no because he hates to hurt anybody's feelings. "My trouble is," he admits to Celia, his fiancee, "I'm a man of no convictions. At least I think I am."

In his rooms are gathered Donald, a fellow don; Braham, a crudely egotistic novelist; Araminta, outgoing, and Liz, reserved; and Celia. An introverted group: the recent suicide in that room of a frustrated student playwright is passed over lightly; and the news that a fanatic has just murdered the Prime Minister and eight of the Cabinet produces an automatic "How terrible" and "It's appalling" until the conversation veers at the discovery that there are no lemons for the drinks.

Puzzling at Times. My charge that "The Philanthropist" is sometimes puzzling refers to this Act One gathering. The rapid-fire conversation ranges widely into academic and intellectual gossip, it is dotted with would-be epigrams, several longish monologues are thrown in about offstage persons and events.

To this reviewer the effect was confusing. The lack of focus or emphasis (in so much talk is a very difficult challenge to a director!) left me with no clear cut feelings about any of the characters, except for Braham.

When the focus shifted to two actors, we had some extraordinarily striking scenes (Philip and Araminta; Araminta and Celia; and especially the long scene between Celia and Philip in which their "compatibility," or lack of it, is beautifully revealed).

Daniel Haughey did exceedingly well with the part of Philip. With his awkward charm he convinced one of Philip's donnish love of words for their own sake (those stunning anagrams!) and his delightfully honest ineptness with people, especially women. Dennis Michael made a sympathetic Donald, an attractive performance marred only by some unclear diction in the early scenes.

Geoffrey Shales must be complimented for creating a thoroughly dishkable Braham, yet a man with a real style. Jim Shankman was seen only briefly, but it can be recorded that in the first two performances of the play he heroically (as Mr. Haughey's understudy) played the part of Philip during the latter's illness.

3 Women Excellent. The three women in the cast were excellent. Barrie Hunt was always right as Celia, whether being entertaining, angry, distressed, or just trying to make her Philip stop sent "like a pudding, wobbling gently."

Roxanne Hart as Virginia would have [illegible] with anyone but Philip [illegible] no man in his right mind (except Philip) could have said, "I don't really find you attractive." Susan Wolf, as the silent Liz, was more eloquent with one or two gestures and facial expressions than some of the wordy characters. Actually, she was!

No review should fail to mention the stunning setting of Leonard Taylor, Jr., and Charles G. Stone II, with the ironic poster of "Jules Cezar" dominating Philip's book-lined study.

Last and most, credit should go to the director, Peter Breger, for successfully bringing to Princeton this two-year old play by a rising British author. As Artistic Director of Summer Intime, Mr. Breger is involving his group more actively in the community, as witness their free presentation of "George Washington Crossing the Delaware" in Palmer Square on July 4.

SOUTH PACIFIC AGAIN

This Weekend at Open Air Theatre. The Pennington Players' production of South Pacific, after playing two nights to capacity crowds, will be seen again this coming weekend in Washington Crossing Park's Open Air Theatre, with curtain time 8:30.

Chris Betz plays the bubbly Nellie Forbush, and Herb Hunsberger portraying the French planter, Emile de Becque. Warren Raymond is Luther Billis, the Navy's wheeler-dealer, and Geri Tallone casts her spell as Bloody Mary.

NELLIE FORBUSH: Chris Betz is Nellie Forbush in the Pennington Players production of "South Pacific" to be given this Saturday and Sunday at 8:30 at the Open Air Theatre, Washington Crossing.

Karen Kahn is the exquisite Liat, loved by Lieut. Cable, played by Mike Woznick. Other featured players are Steve Metelits, Don Williams, Debbie Kahn, Joe McAlinden, George Koltsas, Terry Doherty, and John Huddleson.

The Rodgers' and Hammerstein show is directed by Mary Rees. Herb Hunsberger is also musical director and the orchestra is conducted by Robert W. Jones. Kimber Smith is choreographer, and Ina Wilner is stage manager.

Thurber's Magic Comes Alive on Rider Stage

Whoever spreads the gospel of James Thurber deserves the thanks of Man. The newly formed Princeton Theatre Company, opening its summer season with "A Thurber Carnival," deserves the thanks and the patronage of not only man but woman and child too.

"A Thurber Carnival" will run for a second week in the handsome comfortable Fine Arts Center of Rider College from Thursday through Sunday evenings July 12-15.

Wherein lies Thurber's magic? Partly in his having a good humored deadpan spoofing of banal abuse) of the English language. "I never dreamed their union had been blessed with issue till their little daughter stabbed the Superintendent of Schools."

"I want you to meet Miss Gorce."

Miss Gorce is on the exhalming game." 1st Inebriate (pulling a loop of string from his pocket): "What is this thing?" 2nd Inebriate: "It's the end of your leader." Bailey.

Human Foibles Uncovered. Partly it is in his perception of human foibles, which, by a touch of exaggeration, he makes the stuff for us to laugh at: publishers who send 36 copies of a book that has not been ordered to several wrong addresses, commercial anthologists who bowdlerize the classics to make them more "cheerful", modern Red Riding Hoods who are too smart for the wolf.

As for the Thurber drawings: women generally huskier than men, dogs usually bigger (and gentler) than either, birds and animals obviously keeping their thoughts to themselves: by how little are they exaggerated?

Since most human foibles can be laughed at, it is fitting that the gloriously funny "Secret Life of Walter Mitty" comes as the climax of "A Thurber Carnival." But Thurber knew that human folly is not always funny, and so it is also fitting that Act One of the Carnival ends with the quietly poignant picture show of "The Last Flower."

As directed by Daniel Berkowitz, the production sparkles with good humor. Most of the action is farce, and the actors play it with delight.

Vintage Thurber. Viewers will have their own favorite numbers to me (in addition to Mitty) "The Pet Department" was vintage Thurber, with the Doctor solemnly analyzing the animal drawing in front of the artificial TV smiles of the pretty studio assistants. "File and Forget" built nicely to a recognizable climax. "Fables for Our Time" could not miss. "The MacBeth Murder Mystery" succeeded largely by virtue of Anne Louise Hoffmann's dogged certainty that she knew how mystery stories should be written.

Among a dozen separate numbers some unevenness is inevitable. Probably the hardest to put across was "The Night the Bed Fell." To tell a long funny story while standing in one spot and talking with little change of pace would tax any actor, most of the audience laughs came toward the beginning of the monologue.

The program lists the actors as a group without specifying the individual parts played. Perhaps a reviewer should take the hint and not try to single out any by name. Nevertheless, with no intent to slight any of a uniformly good cast, I must admit to having been charmed by John Vennema's wolf and Mitty, by Mark Capri's suave floorwalker, posturing TV analyst, and unconscious husband; by Alice White's harassed, pad flipping stenographer; and by Marcia Ellian and Anne Hoffman's versatility.

Credit also Lowell Achziger's disarming set (Who could be unhappy with fifteen blown up Thurber creatures to look at all evening long?), Robert Scheeler's agile lighting, Karen Boyle's lively variegated costumes, and Walton Jones's musical direction.

The Princeton Theatre Company has opened its season auspiciously.

OPENING NIGHTS

For Street Theatre. The young actors in Princeton's Street Theatre will take their caravan stage to locations as far afield as East Windsor for their first production of the summer season.

The trio of one act plays will open in East Windsor next Wednesday, July 18. It will play at Princeton High School on Thursday, July 19, in Van Nest Park in West Windsor on Friday, July 20, at Princeton's Riverside School on Saturday, July 21 and at a third location, to be announced, on Sunday, July 22.

All performances are free. All begin at 8:30 p.m. Come and sit on the lawn (bring blanket or chairs) and spend the evening.

The three plays are "Jest of Across the Sea" by Noe Coward, as directed by Geoff Becker and "Another Way Out," by Lawrence Langer, directed by Louise Arnold.

"PICNIC"

Seasonal ORering. The late William Inge's prize-winning play, "Picnic" will begin a two-week run next Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. at the Bucks County Playhouse in New Hope.

For children, the Playhouse will show "Alice Through the Looking Glass" this Thursday at 11:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. Next Thursday, July 19, at the same hours, the theatre will present "Little Red Riding Hood."

Before "Picnic" opens, the Playhouse will continue its presentation of "On Borrowed Time" with John Carradine. Its final performance will be this Sunday at 6 p.m.

COURSE IS PLANNED

In Church Music. The Lawrenceville School will host a one-week church music course for boy choirsters and choirmasters under the joint sponsorship of England's Royal School of Church Music and the Episcopal Diocese of New Jersey, August 5-11.

The course, which will be led by Lionel Dakers, Director of the Royal School and former organist of Exeter Cathedral, will involve 120 choristers and 60 choir directors.

Australian - born composer Malcolm Williamson will conduct an improvised hymn-tune opera session on one evening during the one-week course.

Highlight of the week - long course, which will feature concerts by Gerre Hancock, Anthony Newman, Susan Robinson, and others, will be a festival service to be held at Trinity Cathedral, Trenton, on Friday evening, August 10, at 8:00 p.m. under the direction of Mr. Dakers. This service will be open to the general public.

The faculty for the course will include Dr. Lee H. Bristol, Jr., Clifford Clark, Lloyd Cast, Lionel Dakers, Clinton Doolittle, Gerre Hancock, Robert Hazen, Robert Hobbs, David Koehring, James H. Litton, Fritz Noack, Robert Quade, Jack Reber, Eugene Roan, Robert Tate, The Venerable Dr. Frederic P. Williams and Malcolm Williamson. The Chairman is Robert Hobbs, Hon. R.S.C.M., assistant music director of the Columbus Boy Choir School.

In addition to training sessions, rehearsals, lectures, and concerts, participants will have an opportunity to make use of recreational facilities on the Lawrenceville School's 360-acre campus. For further information, those interested may write Dr. Wade Stephens, Lawrenceville School, Lawrenceville, New Jersey.

THE HEARTBREAK KID: Charles Grodin finds his new wife is no match for Cybill Shepherd in "The Heartbreak Kid" now at the Garden.

"GEORGY GIRL"

Plus Welles, O'Toole. Three contemporary classics will be shown next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in Summer Intime's film series. All films are shown at 7:30 p.m. in McCormick Art Museum, behind Murray Theatre on the University campus.

"Georgy Girl" is the selection for Monday. It stars Lynn Redgrave and James Mason.

"The Stranger," Orson Welles' thriller, is the Tuesday offering. Welles' co-stars in this one are Edward G. Robinson and Loretta Young.

"Lord Jim" has been chosen for next Wednesday. Peter O'Toole and Eli Wallach appear in this version of Joseph Conrad's novel.

OR "WHAT YOU WILL"

"Twelfth Night" Coming. A revival of the 1971 Summer Intime production of Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" will be given by the new Princeton Theatre Company in its summer home at the Fine Arts Theatre of Rider College.

This second production of the season for the new PTC will open next Thursday, July 19. Performances are 8:30 p.m. Thursday through Saturday, and 7:30 p.m. Sunday. Reservations may be made at 896 0009.

Several members of the 1971 cast will repeat their roles. John Vennema will once again be the bumbling Malvolio, Larry Strichman will return as Feste the Clown and Daniel Berkowitz is once again the director.

"NIGHT MUST FALL"

Chills for A Dollar. The delicious story of a psychopathic killer loose in the English countryside, the story called "Night Must Fall," will be acted by the Princeton Summer Repertoire Theatre Company, July 27 and 28 at 8 p.m. in the band room of Princeton High School. Admission will be one dollar.

The company consists of Jane Beard, Liz Bollck, Walter Broner, Dick Warren, Elizabeth Jacobs, Adrienne Levine, Robert Little and Mat Neuberg.

MONTGOMERY

Lost Horizon is a musical remake of the fable about the Tibetian monestary deep in the Himalayas where nobody grows old and peace is eternal. The story remains as fine as it ever was but this high-style, glossy production by Ross Hunter is nowhere near as fine a version as the one by Frank Capra in 1937 which became an almost instant classic.

This two-hour and 34-minute remake is in color with all the up-to-date technical effects the story uniquely calls for. And Hunter hews closely to the original novel by James Hilton: a diverse group of passengers on the last plane out of a revolution-torn Far-Eastern country are kidnapped and flown into the icy Himalayas where the plane crashes.

Rescued by a band of passing porters, the group is taken to one of the most imaginative fantasy lands in English literature Shangri-La. It also turns out that the group's discovery of the place was not haphazard but carefully planned, with its leader, an English diplomat meant to stay and take over the monastery from its aging (more than

Regal Creates Design Showroom to Give Total Concept

Convinced that most homeowners would rather see the total concept in life size rather than a mere selection of pictures, swatches, wood chips, etc., Regal Home and Kitchen Center has conceived the design showroom to display kitchens and baths.

Now located at 30 George Dye Road at Route 33 in Hamilton Square, Regal established its new showroom because of the growing need for a central location where homeowners as well as builders could see, first hand, design and decorating ideas for home improvements and new home building.

Regal's emphasis is on the two rooms in the home that get the most use, the kitchen and bathroom. There are eight full displays of kitchens and bath on display, that will be changed from time to time, with a wide selection in all price ranges.

Designs range from modern to colonial to Spanish and more, with different woods, wood-tones and color combinations, plus a variety of convenience features. To complement the basic cabinet and fixture designs and colors, Regal has a full panneling department, and carpet and flooring department where color and texture coordinates may be selected.

One of the outstanding features at Regal is a fully 'operational' kitchen where the homeowners can see how various kitchen appliances work, look and sound. Included in this group are some of the latest in home conveniences such as a trash masher or compactor, microwave range and indoor charcoal grill. A full line of kitchen and laundry appliances by brand-named manufacturers are on display.

Regal does not limit its design and decorating ideas to the kitchen and bath, but design service is also available for almost every room in the home or apartment where cabinets, shelving, paneling and flooring and floor covering is involved, such as the family room, library, bar, bedroom, etc.

Cabinets and shelving are 'custom' manufactured at Regal's own factory in Chesterfield, N. J., or by Birchcraft or Roseline, and there are standard sized stock-line cabinets and vanities by Excel.

MAKE IT YOURSELF

Knitting Shop Can Help. A lazy summer day is just the time to begin a knitting or needlepoint project for the fall, and at the Knitting Shop, Tulane Street, owner Maureen Kimchick tempted us with pillows, purses, sweaters and dresses.

If you have always wanted to try needlepoint, the shop has some Quickpoint kits. These have only four stitches to the inch and so can be quickly finished. It is an easy way to begin this enjoyable craft.

Bernat has a quickpoint sampler pillow that includes all the various needlepoint stitches such as the rice and brick stitches. The kit includes a stenciled canvas, yarn, needle and all necessary directions to complete this handsome pillow, $9.50.

Other quickpoint kits feature a blue Chinese Willow pattern, Raggedy Ann and Andy, and a large panda with orange flowers.

Do Your Own Purse. The Knitting Shop has some beautifully made J. R. purses in a box, tote or shoulder style. These fabric bags can be covered with needlepointed flower strips, monograms, or any original design. The purses are only $9.50, and the Knitting Shop will gladly help you with the needlepoint.

Another suggestion is to make a rya pillow with a Bernat knit that includes a quick-latch hook, pre-cut wool, and a stenciled canvas. Or if you don't wish a total shag look, Bernat also has Hi-Lo pillows in which the rya wool and craftsman rug wool are mixed to create a sculptured effect, $8 to $13.

Framed crewel pictures add a very personal touch to any room and are fun to make. We admired a sturdy train engine by Bernat called, "Last of the Giants," and a sweet child kneeling by a bed covered with a patchwork quilt by Cathy, called "Evening Prayer." These kits contain wool, fabric and directions, and each is approximately $9.

The main business of the Knitting Shop is dresses, coats and suits, and the store carries a large selection of imported yarns from many countries. Maureen Kimchick will adjust any pattern to fit perfectly and then the shop will do all the finishing and lining of the coat or dress.

Yarns that are as pretty as their names, such as Dolly and Parfait, come in lovely pinks, yellows, blues, burgundy and even a pale melon. Only 10 or 12 small skiens are needed for a dress, and it is easily made on size 4 or 5 needles.

There are also wool yarns for sweaters such as the Icelandic Lopi in natural sheep colors; and a Canadian fisherman's wool, Candide, that comes in heather colors, $16 for a man's size 44 sweater.

During the summer, the Knitting Shop is open from 10 until 5 Monday to Friday.

During the past 125 years, Marsh and Company has enlarged and added watches, cosmetics and even electrical appliances to its pharmaceutical supplies.

The store has many Panasonic radios and TV's, and can get anything in the catalog from toasters to color TV's on a special order. Our favorite item was a small TV-radio called the Pomona, which has a 5-inch pop-up screen, an AM-FM radio and its own battery. This would be ideal on a desk, kitchen table, or even sitting by the side of the pool. $169.95.

Among the other small electrical items are shavers, hair-dryers, water piks, and a massager. By Pollenex, the massager has five attachments that not only tone up the skin but through the use of heat help to relieve aches and sore muscles. $16.95.

Marsh and Company also carries the fine brushes made by Kent of London since 1777. A back brush with a removable handle so it can be easily used in your hand is $14.75 for pure bristle and $6.50 for a combination of penelron and bristle.

Military and ladies' brushes are available in several sizes, including the most beautifully finished brush ever with long thick natural bristles. $60.

Watches are very popular at Marsh and the store has a large line by Timex, from $7.95 to $80. There is a large gold electric calendar man's watch with an expansion band, $30, and a ladies watch that has five different colored bands and cases, $17.

Then, among the cosmetics a full selection of Almay's hypo-allergenic foundation, powder, lipsticks, creams, and eye shadows. This makeup is so

"Stagecoach"

John Carradine, veteran film actor now starring in "On Borrowed Time" at the Playhouse in New Hope, appeared in the original John Ford film, "Stagecoach," and it will be shown this Thursday in a double bill with "On Borrowed Time."

Everyone who attends this Thursday's 8:30 performance is invited to stay and see "Stagecoach," which stars John Wayne and Mr. Carradine. No extra charge. The actor will be on hand to comment on the film during its progress.

three hundred years old) founder.

The cast is quite good, particularly Charles Boyer as the High Lama and Salley Kellerman as a foreign correspondent. Others of top rank in the film are Peter Finch, Liv Ullmann, John Gielgud and George Kennedy.

Less satisfactory is the musical score by Burt Bacharach, whose jazzy, fragmented melodies, while fine for a more modern idiom, are unromantic and tend to destroy the film's rich romantic mood.

The Heartbreak Kid. Elaine May's second film based on a Neil Simon screenplay. It's flawed but it is also a whoing-wonderful for sensitive skin, is comparative in price to other lines and includes many colors such as a Dandelion eye shadow.

Marsh and Company at 30 Nassau Street, is open Monday to Friday from 9 until 9, on Saturday from 9 until 6, and on Sunday from 9 until 1.

ly accurate comedy about a young man on his honeymoon and his victims. There is an ample humor both in broad laughs and in the caustic powerful insights that come from moments of recognition when human foibles are accurately captured and revealed.

Lenny Cantrow is honeymooning in Miami with his wife (Jennie Berlin), whom he has never really looked at and about whom he soon has some grave doubts. (She eats Milky Ways in bed for one thing.) When she gets sunburned the first day and must stay indoors, Lenny discovers the girl of his dreams when he meets Cybill Shepherd, a beautiful, blonde All-American girl from Minneapolis who toys with his affection. Lenny, in love, pulls out all the stops to get her.

Despite its laughs, the film is laced with streaks of cruelty. The scene where Lenny tries to tell his wife the truth is one of the meanest, but Miss May with her sense of pace and comic timing does not let the cruelty tear down the whole movie. Even a Graduate-style ending can't detract from the brilliant comedy she has directed. PG.

News Of The CHURCHES

LUTHERANS NAME PASTOR Fill 10-Month Vacancy. The Lutheran Church of the Messiah, Cedar Lane and Nassau Street, will install the Rev. Allen A. Gartner as its new pastor this Sunday at 3 p.m.

Rev. Gartner comes to Princeton from Minneapolis, where he had been pastor of the Holy Cross Lutheran Church since 1964. His installation will fill a vacancy which has existed for 10 months.

The installation service will be officiated by the Rev. Ronald Starenko, vice-president of the Eastern Region of the English District of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod.

Messiah's assistant pastor, Gilbert Meilaender, will serve as Liturgist. Pastors Harold Remus and Jon Dechow will be lectors. The preacher for the service will be the Rev. Richard Hoyer, circuit counselor of the Philadelphia Circuit of the English District.

Rev. Gartner's new assignment will include ministering to the over 300 members of the Messiah church, plus all Lutheran students on the Princeton University campus.

People-Centered. "My experience is that often a church program becomes the main function of the church," he said last week when asked about his goals. "The proper relation of the people of the church to the program of the church gets inverted."

"I'd like to work toward a people-centered church, as opposed to a program-centered church," Rev. Gartner said.

"Years ago I worked in a grocery store. I still remember a memo that the boss sent around one day. Its message was that we workers in the store should not consider people an interruption to our work, but rather the very purpose of our work."

Born in Detroit, the 41-year-old minister comes to the Messiah church with degrees from Concordia Junior College in Fort Wayne, Indiana, and from Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, from which he graduated in 1957.

Psychology Also. In 1962 he received a master of divinity degree from Concordia Seminary, and in 1969 he earned a master of theology degree from Luther Seminary, St. Paul. This year he received an M.A. degree in educational psychology from the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis.

"Most ministers today feel a need for more psychology than that taught in the seminaries," Rev. Gartner said of his enrollment in this secular course of study.

He entered the ministry at Trinity Memorial Lutheran Church in Independence Hill, Indiana. While stationed there he taught one semester at Valparaiso University, and also served as part-time chaplain to a nearby tuberculin hospital.

Pastor Gartner is married to the former Marilyn Maul and they have two children: Jonathan, 12, and Karen, 10.

The Lutheran Church of the Messiah was formed in 1947. Services were first held in the Westminster Choir College Chapel. The present church building was dedicated in 1952.

Rev. Gartner's predecessors have been Pastor Milton Nauss, 1947-1955, the Rev. Dr. Richard Luecke, 1955-1964, and the Rev. Dr. Luther Krueger, 1964-1972.

CHOIR PROGRAMS LISTED By Trinity Church. Seven choirboys from the Choir of Men and Boys at Trinity Church in Princeton will fly Sunday to Asheville, N. C., where they will serve as a demonstration choir for the annual choir camp of the Diocese of Western North Carolina.

Rev. Allen A. Gartner

Choirboys chosen to attend the two-week camp are Bruce Litton, David Lifland, Jason Roberts, David Voorhees, David Harrison, Joseph Hackler and Clifford Wight. In addition to travel expenses, the choirboys are awarded a full camp scholarship for their work as a demonstration choir.

During the two weeks the choir will sing two concerts and two services, including a full staged performance of a small opera by Malcolm Williamson.

The musical director of the camp is James Litton, organist and choirmaster of Trinity Church.

Held at the Diocesan Conference Center on Black Mountain outside Asheville, the camp draws over 75 boys and girls from all parts of North Carolina. In addition to detailed work in choral music, the choir camp includes a full program of various Arts and sports activities.

Columbus Boys to Sing. Choirboys and instructors who are participating in the Columbus Boy Choir School Summer Choir Camp will form a choir to sing for the 10 a.m. service at Trinity Church on Sunday.

BULLETIN NOTES

Princeton Interfaith Council has announced leaders for three of its working committees. They are Mrs. Graham Marshall of St. Paul's Church, who will chair the committee on community concerns. The Rev. Floyd N. Rhodes, pastor, Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church, the committee on worship; and the Rev. William Forbes, Nassau Presbyterian Church, the committee on education.

Each local congregation is encouraged to send one to three persons to work on any of these committees, which determine the program of the

To the Editor of Town Topics:

In response to Mr. Dimitruk's letter on the proposed municipal building in West Windsor . . . I'm afraid Mr. Dimitruk has been affected by that age old disease that stimulates people to policly speak out against issues totally foreign to them.

Shame on you Mr. Dimitruk. I never see you at Township meetings and you give people the impression you do not want to get involved in Township affairs.

Give me at least equal time and I'm sure I can satisfy your concerns.

Interfaith Council.

The Rev. Gertrude V. Lindener, minister of the United Church of Bethel, Vermont, will participate in the informal summer service this Sunday at 9:30 a.m. at the Unitarian Church of Princeton. She is a graduate of Oberlin College and Crane Theological Seminary of Tufts University.

The Rev. William Kight, former Princeton Street minister and now director of youth ministry at the Riverside Church in New York, will preach in summer union services Sunday at 8:30 a.m. in the Princeton Cemetery, and at 10 a.m. in the Palmer Square building of Nassau Fresbyterian Church.

Campaign for Christ, 1973, the series of meetings being held at the Princeton Church of Christ, 33 River Road, began this week, and will continue through Friday, July 20. Evangelist Owen D. Olbricht will preach every night at 7:30, Sunday at 6:30.

Dr. Edwin L. Ehlers, president of the New Jersey Synod of the Lutheran Church in America, will preach the sermon at the regular 9:30 a.m. Sunday service at the Prince of Peace Lutheran Church. Dr. Ehlers was ordained into the ministry in 1953 and came to the New Jersey Synod in 1962. After serving a number of congregations, he was appointed Assistant to the President of Synod in 1968 and was elected president in 1970.

Services of the Prince of Peace Lutheran Church are held each Sunday at 9:30 a.m. in the Maurice Hawk School on Clarksville Road with the summer services being formal with men requested not to wear suits and ties. All are welcome to these weekly services and more information may be secured by calling Dr. Herbert Anderson (921-7030), vice pastor of the congregation or Rev. Norm Nuding, president of the church.

Obituaries

Charles R. Howell, 69 of 56 East Curlis Avenue, Pennington, died July 5 in Trenton. A former Congressman, he retired in 1969 as New Jersey's Commissioner of Banking and Insurance.

Born in Trenon, Mr Howell's first political affiliation was with the Replublican Party. He attended the Havsick School in Hoosick, N.Y., starring in football and dramatics, and then entered Princeton University.

After a year and a half at Princeton, he left in 1924 to work in a Philadelphia bank. He later joined a Trenton insurance firm and, during the Depression, changed to the Democratic Party.

He was first elected to public office in 1944 as a state assemblyman from Mercer County. From 1948 to 1954 he was U.S. Congressman from Mercer and Burlington counties, the Fourth District.

In 1954 with the backing of then Governor Robert B. Meyner, Mr. Howell ran for the U.S. Senate against Clifford P. Case, the Republican who still holds that seat.

James Imbrie, 93, died July 3 in Chapala, Mexico. A residen. of Lawrenceville until five years ago, he was a former leader of the New Jersey Progressive Party.

A native of Bergen Point, he graduated from Princeton University in 1901. He went to work on Wall Street, and became the senior partner in the investment firm of Imbrie and Company.

He retired in 1937, moved to Lawrenceville, and became active in politics. A leader in several local citizens groups, he also organized a New Jersey State Citizens for Roosevelt committee.

In 1948 he ran unsuccessfully for the U.S. Senate on the Progressive Party ticket. The next year he ran for Governor of New Jersey, again as a Progressive and again unsuccessfully.

Mr Imbrie was more successful in 1950 when he raised funds to aid the defense in the second trial of the "Trenton Six," a group of men accused of killing a Trenton shopowner.

Four men eventually were acquitted, one died in prison, and one pleaded guilty to the crime.

Survivors include his wife, the former Helen Wood Green who now lives in Chapala; a brother, G. Kennedy Imbrie of Cresskill, and six children including Robert of Roosevelt.

Burial was July 5 in Chapala.

Narrow Defeat. All that separated the two candidates was 3,370 votes, but Mr. Howell was on the short side. His effort had been hurt by the unorthodox candidacy of Henry Krajewski, a Secaucus pig farmer who attracted 35,000 votes in a normally Democratic area.

After the election, Gov. Meyner appointed Mr Howell to the banking and insurance post.

Although the illness that took his life forced him to resign in 1969, Mr. Howell still held the position almost twice as long as any of his predecessors.

In that time he established a reputation as an independent critic of the insurance industry. He maintained that some insurance firms were "monopolistic," and that some bankers were trying to impede reform.

High-Risk Plan. When insurance companies began dropping insurance coverage in racially tense cities and neighborhoods, Mr Howell developed a high risk plan that would provide some insurance for those areas.

Once he was attacked politically for delaying hearings on an investigation of an insurance official accused of misappropriating $250,000. Mr Howell replied that the investigation was actually delayed because the official was having a leg amputated.

The official eventually was convicted in a case based on evidence developed by Mr Howell's department.

He was a former president and active member in the Trenton Kennel Club, and helped make the club's annual dog show one of the largest in the nation.

He was a past president of the Trenton Association of Life Underwriters, a member of the Mercer County Regional Council, State Division Against Discrimination; Department of Politics at Princeton University, the Lions, Elks, and the New Jersey Legislative Committee to Investigate the causes of Juvenile Delinquency.

Surviving are his wife, the former Inez Wood, whom he married in 1928; and two sisters, Mrs Frances Johnson of Trenton, and Mrs. Frank Holbrook of Boise, Idaho.

A private funeral was held in Pennington. Interment was private. Contributions may be made to the Department of Politics at Rutgers University.

Miss Mabel Hillian, 83 of 283 Mount Lucas Road, died July 6 in the Princeton Medical Center. She was a retired cook at Princeton University.

A member of the Mount Pisgah A.M.E. Church, she served on the Usher Board and in the Willing Workers Club.

Surviving are a sister, Miss Bessie Hillian, a brother, Robert Rivers, both of Princeton, and several nieces and nephews.

The funeral was held in the Mount Pisgah A.M.E. Church. Interment was in Franklin Memorial Park.

Wilbur Stout, 67, of Pennington, died July 5 at his home.

Born in Trenton, he had been for many years a builder in the Pennington area.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Edith E. Stout; five daughters, Mrs Joseph E. Sickels Jr., Mrs Richard J. Parziale and Mrs. Aubrey A. Branham Jr., all of Pennington, Mrs. John Force of Flemington and Mrs Robert G. Meszaros

DOMJAN WORKS ON VIEW

At State Museum. Twenty handwoven Gobelin Tapestries translated from woodcuts by Joseph Domjan will be exhibited in the auditorium of the New Jersey State Museum from July 14 through September 9.

It will mark Domjan's second exposure in State Museum facilities. In 1966, 216 prints by the Hungarian-born woodcut master were the focal point for a major retrospective exhibition of his American works.

The tapestries in the new exhibition were woven in France, mostly during the past decade, using centuries old production methods. Domjan was the master artist for the entire project from initial design to completed creation.

Represented on the Domjan tapestries are characters from folk tales, magical animals, flowers and birds, all akin to the motifs employed by the artist earlier in the design of his full-bodied, multiple-impression woodcuts. Significantly, these woodcuts were acclaimed by art connoisseurs for "achieving richly textured effects that glow like brocaded tapestry."

Domjan, who studied and later taught at the Budapest Academy of Fine Arts, emigrated to the United States in the mid 1950's. He has earned a variety of international honors and awards, and his work is represented in numerous public and private collections worldwide. Formerly a resident of New Jersey, he now lives in Tuxedo Park, N. Y.

The Museum's galleries are open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday and from 2 to 5 p.m. on Sundays.

PLANS TAKE SHAPE

For New Hope Auto Show. Two big days are coming up for automobile fans when New Hope, Pa. plays host to its annual auto show on Saturday and Sunday, August 11 and 12.

This will be the sixteenth consecutive anniversary of show and Automotive Flea Market which will take place on the grounds of the New Hope-Solebury High School, Route 202.

Roger Conduit, show director, has announced that this year will mark three-part expansion of automobile divisions eligible to be judged for first, second and third place trophies. Welcomed on Saturday for their first time in the show will be the Milestone Club's choice selection of pick-of-the-crop post World War II models. Sunday will see the debut of the new Buick Meet highlighting Buicks produced from the early 1900's and to 1950.

The Ford automobile division has been considerably enlarged to include not only Model "A" Fords but a new Vintage classification for Fords up to the Model "A" and a new sub-division featuring post Model "A"'s to pre-war 1940 models.

Saturday's judging will begin with the Vintage Antique Automobile Division, the best overall winner of which will be awarded the Governor's Cup, authorized by the Honorable Milton J. Shapp, Governor of Pennsylvania.

Presentation of the awards, including the annual permanent award for the best classic cars on Sunday, will be made by Miss Barbara Monaco, this year's queen of the New Hope Auto Show.

The show will get underway at 10 a.m. on August 11 and 12. Admission is $1.50, with children under 12 admitted free of charge. Refreshment stands are situated on the grounds. Proceeds are used by the sponsor, the New Hope Solebury Community Association, to support a wide range of beneficial youth and adult community activities and charities.

YOUR TV ACTING UP?

It May Be "Summer-itis." If the picture on your TV set during the next few weeks starts to shrink, develop double images or look like it has its own built-in venetian blinds, it may be a case of TV "summer-itis" and not a problem in the set.

Summertime — particularly July and August — brings a set of unique problems for TV reception, according to the technical experts at the RCA Service Company's headquarters in Cherry Hill, N. J.

For example, power cutbacks, or "brownouts," may result in a TV picture that shrinks at the top or bottom, on one or both sides, or on all four sides at once.

"This is because TV receivers are designed to perform satisfactorily within a range of voltages — generally from about 105 volts to 130 volts," says Wilbur W. Cook, Manager of Technical Performance and Training for RCA Service Company.

"When voltages are cut back because of heavy power demands for air conditioning, the power may drop below the minimum required for good reception. The picture then may shrink and become dim. It may, in extreme cases, even lose focus and become fuzzy," he explained.

Another TV reception problem peculiar to summer is what technicians call "co-channel interference." This occurs when atmospheric conditions carry in a signal from a distant station that is operating on the same channel as a local station. In effect, you are receiving two stations on the same channel at the same time.

If you receive a picture with large bars horizontally across it, something like venetian blinds, or if a second picture floats in the background across the main picture, then it's probably a case of co-channel interference," Mr. Cook said.

In the case of power cutbacks and co-channel interference, there's little the consumer can do but be patient until conditions improve. To call the serviceman may just result in an unnecessary expense.

If the picture is shrinking, Mr. Cook suggests that the consumer check out the set early in the morning when power is usually normal. This ought to confirm whether the set is operating properly or if a call to the serviceman is indeed necessary.

If the venetian blind effect or double images occur, they usually will not persist over an extended period and will not affect all channels. In this case, Mr. Cook suggests that consumers try other channels and wait at least until the next day before calling the serviceman to have the set checked out.

REVALUATION SET

For Hopewell Borough. More than 700 real estate properties that make up Hopewell Borough face revaluation within the next year with the awarding of a $7,900 contract to Princeton Appraisal Company by the Borough Council.

Borough residents may learn specific details about the revaluation at a public meeting set for 8 p.m., this Friday in Borough Hall.

Representatives of Princeton Appraisal, located at 190 Nassau Street, plan to begin inspections of homes, commercial, tax-exempt and railroad properties in the near future.

Inspections will review the interiors and exteriors of all properties, and will include the number of bathrooms, the modernity of kitchens in home residences as well as exterior measurements of the buildings. Photographs of all properties will also be taken.

The project is to be completed in time for the 1974 tax computations, according to Township clerk Joseph Pierson. At the conclusion of the survey, all Hopewell Borough property owners will be notified of their new assessments and will be given an opportunity to review the new figure with a member of the firm.

GROUP SHOW PLANNED

ry. The Art Confederation ry. The Art Confederation Gallery is having its first birthday. The Gallery, tucked away in the courtyard of "Owen's Barn" at 77 Main Street, Kingston, will celebrate with a group show of work by some of its past exhibitors.

On display will be lithographs and woodcuts by Jacob Landau, etchings by Joan Needham, wood block prints by Peter Vince, and watercolors by Robert Sakson and Irene Mickunas. The show will continue throughout July. The AC Gallery hours are 1 to 5, Tuesday through Saturday.

AFRICAN TRIP SET

For YMCA Board Chairman. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph S. Mason and family will attend the Sixth World Council of YMCAs held in Africa this month.

Mr. Mason, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Princeton YMCA is a member of the National Council and of the Worlds Alliance of the YMCA. They will arrive in Kampala, Uganda, site of the Council meeting, July 17. The Council meeting is to be held July 18-15.

Local Council participants will be part of a contingent of 120 Americans representing the YMCAs of the United States. The American YMCA will be one of more than 50

Plans for Resortation of Battlefield Launched

Three key figures in the long range planning for the restoration and preservation of the Princeton Battlefield area met July 4 to launch an architectural plan.

John M. Dickey, left, Media, Pa. historical site architect has been retained by the Princeton Battlefield Area Preservation Society represented by its president, Edward D'Arms, center, of Princeton. Representing the State of New Jersey's Department of Environmental Protection was David K. Poinsett, supervisor of historic sites.

Mr. D'Arms delivered a check for $1,000 to Mr. Dickey, who promised to deliver a "practical not visionary" plan. The first stage will be delivered to the state and the society in September and the final plan by Christmas.

Following the meeting, Col. Kemble Widmer, state geologist led about 70 persons on a tour of the battlefield site.

national YMCAs represented at the Council meeting.

The Council meeting is being convened by the World Alliance of YMCAs, made up of national YMCAs from 80 countries. World Alliance headquarters are in Geneva, Switzerland. World Council meetings are held every four years, the last one having been held in Nottingham, England in 1969.

Among items to be dealt with by the Council are work with refugees, an area of work in which the World Alliance has been involved for many years. The Council will consider methods and financing for refugee work in Southeast Asia.

Also on the agenda will be needs related to human environment and international cooperation for development.

A major topic will be a reexamination of the so - called "Paris Basis," of the constitution of the World Alliance. Adopted in 1885, it has formed the basis and guidelines for the worldwide YMCA movement. In recent World Council meetings, the "Paris Basis" has been questioned but reaffirmed. The question has been raised again whether the "Paris Basis" now adequately and accurately expresses the aspirations and nature of the YMCA after 118 years of growth and change.

A commission, appointed in 1969, has been at work developing alternatives and these will be reported at the Kampala Council meeting.

The choice of Kampala, capital of Uganda, as the site for the 1973 World Council Meeting, stemmed from a desire to learn more about Africa as a developing land. At present, YMCAs exist in nine African nations.

FUND DRIVE BEGUN

By Medical Center. The Princeton Medical Center launched an area-wide campaign this week for contributions totalling $400,000.

Proceeds of the drive, according to Medical Center Resources Chairman William L. Wilson, will be applied against existing indebtedness and for acquisition of new equipment.

Announcement of the campaign was mailed this week to 650 businesses and industries located in communities served by The Medical Center.

"Last year's annual fund appeal," he noted, "reached $361,000, requiring an overall increase of 14 percent to meet this year's objective." Terming success of the campaign "vital to the future of area health care," Mr. Wilson noted contributions represent The Medical Center's "major source" of capital funds.

"Of equal importance," the letter states, "is the urgent necessity that The Medical Center continue to keep pace with the ever-increasing demands that the people of Princeton and its area of service make upon it."

Mr. Wilson noted "accelerating advances in medical and dental care, preventative medicine and improved technologies" have enabled The Center "to treat patients better and faster.

New Equipment. Of this year's $400,000 goal, he said, $150,000 will be applied to an outstanding mortgage of $1,468,944 held against the Princeton Hospital unit's newest medical-surgical wing.

The remaining $250,000, he said, will be invested in new equipment "deemed necessary by the board, the administration and physicians to keep pace with advances in medical technology."

Priority, he said, will be placed on acquisition of new equipment for the Hospital unit's surgery and radiology departments and laboratory.

"Because ours is a general appeal," Wilson explained,

The board has designated that all contributions be applied to areas in which the general health care needs of the community are most generally met."

Laboratory and radiology equipment, he said, will strengthen The Medical Center's commitment to prevent serious and costly illness through early detection and treatment.

"By avoiding hospitalization whenever possible," he added, "Medical Center physicians and administrators have taken major steps toward an overall reduction in the cost of health care for area patients.

"At the same time, The Center has experienced a corresponding decrease in revenue which can only be offset through the generous contributions of area industry, business and residents."

Since it was initiated in 1966 The Medical Center's annual campaign has enabled health care officials to nearly double the size and scope of health care facilities.

Total contributions of $368,000 last year enabled The Center to complete payment on its new $1 million department of emergency medicine.

Gamma Camera Helps Medical Center Staff in Detecting Diseases

A nuclear "bloodhound" is tracking elusive disease at The Medical Center at Princeton.

The "bloodhound" — an intricate device called a gamma camera — is helping the physician detect illness in areas of the body known to "mask" disease.

"We've found the gamma camera a flexible, diagnostic tool capable of an ever-increasing number of procedures," says Dr. Henry Powsner, a radiologist at The Medical Center. Use of the instrument begins with an injection.

"In most cases, we inject colorless, sterile, radioactive drugs into a patient's blood stream — the radiation levels are extremely low."

The gamma camera tracks the drug as it speeds through the patient's system.

Scanning the Brain. "Perhaps the greatest use of this technique is scanning the brain for malignancies," says Dr. Powsner. "The normal brain tissue rejects the radioactive drug and lets it continue thru the elaborate maze of blood vessels within the head."

"But," says Dr. Powsner, "abnormal tissue, whether brain tumor, cancer, concussion or abscess, accepts the drug — a fact recorded by the gamma camera as it scans the head." By varying the kind of radioactive drug, there are more than 100 "radiopharmaceuticals" available — different conditions can be detected.

"We can demonstrate the distribution of blood in a patient's lungs," notes Dr. Powsner, "and, by so doing, may detect blood clots — a condition which can sometimes be fatal if left undetected and untreated."

NUCLEAR "BLOODHOUND"—Isotope technician Charles Ostroff, Bordentown, tracks readings on The Princeton Medical Center's intricate gamma camera.

"The gamma camera can often locate the spread of cancer to bone or distant organs. And, we scan the thyroid to help evaluate its function and detect nodules."

That process is accomplished with ingestion of iodine — a substance readily metabolized by the growth-regulating gland.

Gamma vs. X-ray. Why a gamma camera — why not X-ray? "They do quite different things," explains Dr. Powsner. "The X-ray examination makes shadow pictures of the body and depends on differences in density of bones, air and soft tissues.

"The gamma camera helps us track certain physiologic conditions left undetected by X-ray and, of course, X-ray performs some procedures not possible with the gamma camera. The gamma camera generally exposes the patient to smaller amounts of radiation than X-ray — and all doses of radionuclides are prescribed by one of The Medical Center's 5 radiologists."

The two processes, Dr. Powsner explains, mesh well as vital components of The Medical Center's radiologic strategy.

"Considerable research continues to be conducted to give us a better understanding of the capabilities of the gamma camera — we expect the instrument's future will encompass greater use in detecting disease."

MEDICARE TO PAY For Some Chiropractor Bills.

Medicare can now help pay for limited chiropractor's services under Medical Insurance, but only under certain conditions, according to Brendon W. Richards, Social Security District Manager in Trenton.

Mr. Richards pointed out that the chiropractor must be licensed or legally authorized to furnish chiropractic services by the State and also meet federal standards in order to qualify for payment of eligible services by Medicare.

AFS STUDENTS VISIT PRINCETON: Forty-three American Field Service international students, on a bus tour of New England and the Northeast, paid a five-day visit to Princeton last week. Four of them are from left: Carlos A. Faitini of Argentina, who stayed with Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Kauzmann, 4 Newlin Road; Miss Marja K. Norio of Finland, who stayed with Mr. and Mrs. Richard Baker, 1 Armour Road; Luis C. Da S. Freitas of Brazil, who stayed with Dr. and Mrs. William Besser, 526 Terhune Road; and Miss Anne-Lie Sanden of Sweden, who stayed with Mr. and Mrs. Lucius Wilmerding, 9 Russell Road. Seventeen families in Princeton opened their homes to the students during their stay. Some of the countries represented included Indonesia, South Africa, Greece, Vietnam, Uganda, Japan, Venezuela, Peru, Costa Rica, Kenya and most of the countries of Europe.

In addition, Richards said, "We want to emphasize that coverage of chiropractor's services under Medicare is very limited. It is important for beneficiaries to know that Medicare can help pay only for manual manipulation of the spine for the purpose of correcting a subluxation which can be demonstrated by X-Ray.

No payment can be made for any other kind of chiropractic treatment or for any diagnostic services by the chiropractor, such as X-rays or laboratory tests."

LAND USES STUDIED

By University. The following statement has been issued by Princeton University concerning proposals for possible uses of University lands:

The Board of Trustees of Princeton University at a recent meeting heard a progress report on a study of possible uses of University lands which are considered as potentially excess to the foreseeable future needs of the University. In January of this year a special real estate subcommittee of the Board was appointed to examine whether such lands could be put to use both to produce income for the University and to influence positively the quality of development occurring in the vicinity of the Princeton campus.

Paul B. Firstenberg, financial vice-president, and John P. Moran, general manager of physical planning and facilities, made the presentation together with representatives of the University's planning team: K.S. Sweet Associates of King of Prussia, Pa., are the real estate advisors; Sasaki, Dawson, DeMay Associates, Inc. of Watertown, Mass. are the land planners; and Hammer, Siler, George Associates, Inc. of Washington, D. C. are the marketing consultants.

The planning team has concentrated upon the University lands in Plainsboro Township because the Forrestal campus situated there is surrounded by land susceptible to development. In an effort to assure desirable development on the property adjacent to its Forrestal campus, the University has entered into a joint venture agreement with Walker-Gordon Laboratories for two tracts of their land totaling 450 acres which adjoin the Forrestal campus.

The agreement gives Princeton University an option to lease the Walker - Gordon lands on a gradual basis over a 16-year period. Also, the University has obtained an option to purchase the Phipps property, a tract of 227 acres abutting the Forrestal campus on the north.

Both the Walker - Gordon land and the Phipps land are zoned to permit industrial uses. The Board of Trustees empowered the real estate subcommittee to authorize the University to exercise the option to purchase the Phipps property when appropriate.

The team is continuing to study potential uses of what is presently the unused portion of the Forrestal campus and the adjoining Phipps and Walker-Gordon tracts. Upon the development of proposals, probably in the early fall, the concept will be discussed with governmental agencies and officials, citizen groups, the University community and the public.

25 YMCA RANGERS OFF

For Nova Scotia. The Princeton YMCA Ranger Program last week launched its first major summer trip as 25 boys and four leaders embarked on a nine-day canoe and camping trip to Nova Scotia.

In camp now are 20, 12 and 13 year old boys preparing for a 10-day Upper Michigan Canoe Trip and 18 boys, 10-11 years old learning camping skills for their four-day Adirondack Canoe Trip.

Several places remain for boys 11-12 years in the Mt. Katahdin group which begins camp on Monday, July 23 and leaves on Saturday, August 4, for an eight-day trip including a climb of a mile high peak. Also some 10 and 11 year olds may enroll in the Adirondack groups which begin Monday, July 16, and Wednesday, August 1.

Further into the summer 18 boys age 13-14 years are planning on a 15-day Western horseback and back pack trip. Seventeen more junior leaders will be off to the Florida Keys for boating and skin diving.

The boys now camping in Nova Scotia include, Christopher Hanley, Bob Brashler, Hazard Zenzie, Hugh Landis, Andrew Reitzel, Alan Tripp, Barry-Louis Rittenhouse, John Edwards, Craig Baumuk, David Walker, David Morgan, Lewis Barringer, Harris Kohen, Robert Leahy, Drew Walworth, Gregg Bartl, Dana Churchill, Todd J. Kuhn, Bill Jasien, Romi Bellocq, Tim Hoisington, Douglas Ganssle, Eric Hallberg, Jonathan Tenney, Tim Manning.

PEOPLE In The News

Mark A. Linquist, son of Mrs. Vivian B. Linquist, Cherry Brook Drive, and Roy G. Linquist, of New York, has been named to the Dean's List at Bowdoin College. He will be a senior there this fall.

Miss Patricia Perone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Perone, 495 Ewing Street, has graduated from Glassboro State College with a bachelor of arts degree. She was named to the Dean's List the last four semesters and majored in Spanish.

Three Princeton students have been named to the Dean's List at Bucknell University. They are Howard M. Heitner, 14 Philip Drive, who earned a perfect 4.0 average; Peter L. Sheeran, 117 Park Side Drive, and David B. Weiner, 25 Carnegie Drive.

Wheaton College (Ill.) has named two from this area to its Dean's List. Catherine Wolf, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Donald E. Wolf, R.D. 4, and Kenneth S. Mathisen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Mathisen, Crescent Drive.

Joseph Pack, 474 Cherry Hill Road, has been named Trenton's new city health officer, replacing Dr. Henry Rivine, who resigned last spring.

Mr. Pack has served as health officer in Roxbury Township, a community of 17,000 people. From 1961 to 1967, he was health supervisor for the Port of New York Authority.

During the 1950's, he served as the Chief of the Arizona Bureau of Foods and Drugs and before that as Denver, Colorado's sanitarian. He holds degrees from six colleges and universities including Yale.

Dr. E. Stokes Fishburne has joined Aeronautical Research Associates of Princeton, Inc. (A.R.A.P.) as vice-president, aerophysics group, and senior consultant.

He is responsible for various programs in gaseous lasers, gas dynamics, chemical physics, and radiation from high temperature gases, and also for the design and construction of several electro-optical sensing devices.

Dr. Fishburne was formerly Head of the Aerophysics Section of Grumman Aerospace Corporation, Bethpage, New York. He was Assistant Director of the Rocket Research Laboratory of Ohio State University and Assistant Professor in the Department of Aeronautical and Astronautical Engineering.

George S. Hazen, 111 Galbreath Drive, was one of 26 members of Princeton University's recently graduated Class of 1973, who completed their undergraduate careers as Associate Members of The Society of Sigma Xi founded in 1866 for the encouragement of scientific research.

Election to associate membership in Sigma Xi is based upon promise of marked achievement in scientific research, as judged not on the basis of classroom work but by actual research attempted. Each year a number of Princeton seniors qualify for the distinction through their independent thesis work.

Paul M. Marion, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton G. Marion, 410 South Main Street, Pennington, has been named to the Dean's List for the second semester at Ursinus College, Collegeville, Pa. He is a sophomore majoring in biology.

Miss Wendy Oldham, daughter of Mrs. Mamie Oldham, 25 Clay Street, has received a B.A. degree in urban studies and psychology from Barnard College. A graduate of Stuart Country Day School, she plans to continue her education at the University of California.

William J. Kearns has joined Creative Playthings, a division of Columbia Broadcasting System, Inc., as Manager of Graphics.

Mr. Kearns will be responsible for graphic design for corporate identification, packaging, and promotional materials, such as merchandising displays and direct mailings. Previously, Mr. Kearns was a free-lance graphics designer, working with a variety of clients in all phases of design.

Before that, he was an Art Director for Equitable Life Insurance Co. of America, working on the company magazines. He was also an Assistant Art Director for the Charles Heston Associates ad agency, as well as a staff artist for the Bill Gold agency and General Precision.

He attended the University of Alabama, the New York Phoenix School of Design, and the School of Visual Arts.

Alexandra H. Morey, formerly of 210 Mountain Avenue, was graduated magna cum laude in February from New York University with a double major in psychology and English. She was elected to Phi Beta Kappa and was the recipient of the Founders' Day Award. A 1970 graduate of the Stuart School, she is currently employed in Vermont.

In commencement exercises last month, the Massachusetts Institute of Techology awarded an SB degree in physics to Bertrand C. Barrois, son of Professor and Mrs. George A. Barrois, 15 Harris Road; and a master of architecture degree to Annie C. Harris, 7 Cleveland Lane.

Advertising stays where it pays.

We think advertisers use the Yellow Pages year after year because it works. And obviously our advertisers think so too. Because they not only keep coming back, but often increase the size of their ad. Or they advertise under various classifications or in several nearby directories.

What makes the Yellow Pages such a profitable advertising medium? Well for one thing, your customers use it—three out of every four of them. And 90% of them take action as a result.

But even more noteworthy is the fact that no one is ever "just looking" in the Yellow Pages. When your customers reach for our book, they've already decided to buy, rent, repair, remodel or whatever. They're looking to be sold. So tell them why they should come to you, and they probably will.

Talk to our Yellow Pages representatives about developing sales-getting advertising for you. They know why people use the Yellow Pages, and why a potential customer deals with one advertiser rather than his competitor. So call today—before the new telephone directories come out.

Pharmacy Footnotes

by Mel Atlas, Reg. Pharm.

Studies show that even a healthy person will soon begin to feel the effects of failing to get the proper amount of rest and sleep. If he continues to lose sleep, he will begin to lose his healthy good looks, his posture may suffer, and his disposition may change for the worse. When a person does not sleep properly, his resistance to disease may be lowered so that he becomes more susceptible to colds and less able to throw off infection.

SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to you
By John Bernard

What was the shortest home run ever hit! In a minor league game some years ago, a batter hit the ball a few inches in front of the plate. The umpire called it fair, but the pitcher and catcher thought the ball hit off the batter's foot before rolling in front of the plate, which would have made it foul. They stood and argued with the umpire, the ball rested six inches from home, while the batter raced around the bases and crossed the plate—with what turned out to be the shortest home run of all-time!

We take night baseball for granted these days—but, do you know when the very first night game in the major leagues was played! It was in 1935, at Crosley Field, Cincinnati. Then, surprisingly, it was three more years till another park put in lights. The second big league field to be equipped for night baseball was old Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, in 1938.

More and more ex-Little Leaguers have now grown up and are playing major league ball—but, do you know who was the first boy in history to play Little League baseball and then go to the big leagues. The first boy to graduate from the Little Leagues to the majors was pitcher Joey Jay when he broke in with the Braves in 1953.

I bet you didn't know that almost all professional baseball players are covered by Workmen's Compensation—and oddly enough, if you have babysitters you need Workmen's Compensation Insurance.

CREW WINS AT HENLEY

Ends Season Undefeated. Princeton University's lightweight crew capped an undefeated intercollegiate season last week by winning the Thames Challenge Cup at Henley-on-Thames, England.

The Tiger eight, stroked by Bob Redfern of Atlanta, nipped England's Thames Tradesmen's Rowing Club by a third of a length in the finals Saturday. It had built up a good lead by the mile post, but the Tradesmen managed to make up almost the whole gap in the remaining 550 yards. Princeton's winning time was 63:7

In an earlier race, the crew set a record time of 6:33 for the Challenge Cup division beating Norway's Christiania Roklub by a third of a length.

Princeton won all eight of its starts during the regular season, including two victories over a strong Harvard crew.

ERRORS KILL CHANCES

For Princeton All-Stars. Inept defensive play resulted in the rapid elimination of Princeton's All-Star Babe Ruth team from the Area 1 regionals of the National Babe Ruth Tournament. The tournament is run on a "two losses and out" basis. Princeton lost both its starts.

In the first game, playing a team from Trenton's Chambersburg area, Princeton made six errors in the first inning and 10 for the game, as Trenton racked up eight first-inning runs and went on to win, 15-6.

Joe Herrmann was the pitching victim of the opening inning debacle. He was relieved by Jim LaPlaca. Jeff Petrone had three solid hits for the losers.

The second game, played in the losers bracket against Lambertville, was closer. In the top of the first inning, Lambertville scored once on two base hits and an error of omission on a run-down play.

In the bottom of the first, Princeton went ahead, scoring two runs on three walks and a single by Bob McHugh. Mike Boonin, pitching superbly, protected the one-run lead, going into the sixth inning. In the sixth, however, four Princeton infield errors led to five Lambertville runs, giving Lambertville a 6-2 win.

Other starters of the Princeton squad were: Ken Bartolino, Lewis Gumbiner, Tom Hernquist, Dave Shillaber, Paul Soderman, and Scott Thompson. Reserves were Dana Nini, Bernie Noble, Jim Lennon, and Jon Silverman. Coaches were Jim Kahny and Bob Bruschi.

Regular league play resumes this week. Scheduled to play July 11, at 6 p.m. were Thorne Pharmacy and P.B.A. at Stribling Field on Fitzrandolph Road, while New York Life went against Princeton Bank and Trust at the High School Field.

IVY TAKES BIG ONE

Defeats Sannino's, 8-6. In a key game between the two leaders in the Princeton Recreation Department softball league last week, Ivy Inn remained undefeated when it stopped the challenge of Sannino's, 8-6.

Nine of the 14 runs were scored in a hectic, loosely played first inning. Sannino's jumped to an early 3-0 lead on just two hits, but Ivy Inn topped that by scoring six times in its half of the first, also on just two hits. Sannino's infield was guilty of five errors in the inning.

After Ivy had added two more in the third on one hit, Sannino's narrowed the gap in the fifth when it pushed three runs across on hits by Bryce Chase, Joe Cimerola, Ray Cranston, George McVaugh and Bill McQuade. The rally was cut short, however, when both Cranston and McQuade were cut down on the base paths.

Earlier in the week, Sannino's fared better against Hinds, pounding out a 6-4 decision. Men were left stranded in virtually every inning as the two clubs banged out a total of 31 hits. A seventh-inning rally by Hinds was cut down on some great throws by Cranston in left field.

Center Sports meanwhile, took over fourth place with a pair of wins — 15-11 over Sports 'n Things and 6-5 over PIASC.

Trailing 9-0, Sports 'n Things erupted for its best offensive effort of the season when it scored seven runs on eight hits in the third. Two innings later, however, its hopes were dashed when Center Sports added five more runs to put the game out of reach.

Against PIASC, Jack Petrone's sacrifice fly drove in the winning run in the last inning. His brother Jamie, had set up the run with a key hit, after Center Sports had come from behind to erase a 5-3 Italian American lead and tie it in the sixth.

Following the Sannino loss to Ivy, Conte-Staats moved into a tie for second with victories over Andy's Tavern and PCR. Both wins were lopsided as C-S blasted 43 hits in the two contests.

Jack Roberts led the victors at the plate with seven hits in eight at-bats, while teammate Wes Cawley had seven hits in nine trips. In the victory over PCR, Scott Anderson led all hitters with a 5-for-5 performance.

Hinds got back on track when it defeated Andy's Tavern, 5-3. All of its runs were unearned as the Tavern squad committed five errors.

Bicycle Racing Gaining New Adherents Here

With about 15,000 bicycles in the Borough and Township, according to one recent estimate, Princeton testifies to the growing popularity of the bicycle as a recreation vehicle and as a form of transportation. But the masses who ride bikes for fun and convenience should not be confused with the small but also growing number of athletes who endure the rigors of organized bicycle racing.

If you walk down the beginning of John Street, the narrow alley off Nassau Street, and find your way to Kopp's Cycle Shop, you will not soon forget the distinction between the two kinds of riders.

Kopp's was founded in 1891, the same year as the Century Road Club of America, the Princeton - based organization that is one of the most active and most competitive bicycle racing clubs in the nation. The Century and Kopp's have shared homes since their beginning.

The CRC today claims over 300 members, ranging in age from, literally, 9 to 91. Century sponsors at least 10 open racing events a year, and includes a half dozen former Olympians among its ranks.

Last month Century sent two teams into international competition. A team of six senior riders, headed by former Olympians John Allis, a Princeton University graduate, and Dave Chauner, placed second in the five-day, 420 mile "Tour de L'Estric," a race modeled after the famed Tour de France.

Try and Suffer. A group of 10 junior riders, ages 13-18, competed in races in England for two weeks. Headed by Barry Aronson, Fred James, Mariano Camacho and John Teeter, the Princeton cyclists returned home with seven first place finishes, including a win over the Uppingham School, which had not lost a race in four years.

Last weekend, at the New Jersey State Road and Track Championships, the Century Road Club captured first place in six of seventeen events and added two seconds and a third to outperform all other teams.

Austin Erlich, 14, of 41 Litbrook Road, another top competitor in England, won two events, one a track race, the other a 15-mile road race. Dave Chauner finished first in two track events.

Other first place Century riders were David Boll and Mariano Camacho. Allen Bell twice finished in second place, and Tim O'Brien, who also competed in England, took a third.

"Racing where you have to really try and really suffer are the real bike races, and those are the kind we at Century are pushing," said Dick Swann, the chief bicycle engineer at Kopp's. Swann is an Englishman who won nearly 400 races in Europe, Africa and Asia before coming to Princeton and Kopp's and the Century Road Club of America in 1967.

Century's racing this year for example, includes hill climbs and cyclo - crosses, events held in rough terrain where the racer has to ride his bike and occasionally run with it as well.

At the 40 mile Princeton Invitational Criterium in May, the winner's average speed was over 28 miles per hour. Eight of the 40 laps were sprint laps, and points were given to the cyclist leading on these laps. No one could afford to wait until the last lap to sprint for the lead.

BIG WHEELS: Princeton's Dave Chauner, president of the Century Road Club of America, takes a tight turn in the recent Princeton Criterium, a 40-mile road race in which he placed second. Last Sunday Chauner took two first places in the New Jersey State Track Championships. His place of employment is, naturally, Kopp's Cycle Shop, 14 John Street. The Century Road Club has been headquartered there since 1891.

Century Makes History. Swann is also a cycling historian, and has published a half dozen books on the sport. "The history of the Century is the history of New Jersey cycling, and that's the history of cycling in this country," he said.

"Jersey was once known for track racing, and had four or five of the finest velodromes or banked oval tracks in the nation. Now this state is the center of racing on the open road, and California is enjoying a renaissance in track racing."

Track bikes have no brakes, only a single fixed gear, and usually weigh about 18 pounds. Road bikes have front brakes and sometimes rear brakes as well, 10 speed gears, and weigh 21-22 pounds. Racing bikes of either type are usually equipped with 27-inch wheels, a chrome molybdium or comparable alloy frame, and cost from $450 to $800.

For obvious reasons the number of serious racers in the growing crowd of bicyclists is quite small.

The Century Approach. Chauner, the 24-year-old president of the Century Road Club of America, is one who takes his cycling very seriously. A two-time former Olympian, Chauner once specialized in track racing but now competes more in road events, such as the recent tour in Canada.

His level of competition, and the intensity with which he approaches it, are typical of the Century style of cycling. In the month of May Chauner captured one first, two seconds, and a fourth in races in New Jersey and Vermont.

Chauner works at Kopp's fulltime, and practices two to five hours a day, averaging 350-450 miles a week.

"The biggest problems for a cyclist are trying to schedule workouts around normal working hours," Chauner said. "Plus you have to fight saddle sores and sore knees, and you run the risk of three or four bad crashes a year."

Size Not Required. "It's one sport where an average sized man can compete without disadvantage," Chauner said. "Having the bulk of a football player only slows you down. On a cyclist only the thigh muscles get abnormally developed and that's where you get the power in your pedal stroke."

Chauner graduated June 3 with a degree in psychology from Upsala College in East Orange. He did not attend graduation. Instead he rose at 3 a.m. to compete in a 100-mile race in Central Park in New York. "They'll have to mail me that diploma," he said. "I only went to Upsala in the first place because its location was convenient to the races."

Chauner, of course, cannot afford to let up. The results of the English competition has convinced most club members that a pack of young riders will soon be challenging the established veterans.

NASSAU CLUB DEFEATED

The Nassau Swim Club was defeated, 160 to 147, Saturday by Brooktree when it managed to capture only two of eight relay events. Nassau (1-1) was ahead, 133-118, at the individual races.

Triple winners for Nassau were Marc Coutin, boys 12 and under diving, 50 yard backstroke and 100 yard individual medley; and Li Van Horn, girls eight an under 25 yard breaststroke, butterfly, and 100 yard freestyle relay — the latter shared with Libby Bolster, Yuka Manabe and Cathy Langridge.

Double winners were Charlie Kidd, Jim Bolster and Val Van Horn. One of Val's wins was as a member of the winning girls ten and under 100 yard freestyle relay which included Sue Danielson, Barb Van Horn and Beth Alberts.

Other winners for Nassau Club were Charles Bolster, Scott Kelly, Paul Sally, Eric Kruzman and Mary Bolster.

REGISTRATION SET

For YMCA Tennis Tournevs. Registration for the Men's Doubles and Ladies Doubles Tournament, sponsored by the Princeton YMCA and The Community Tennis Association is now being accepted at either the Princeton YMCA or at the Princeton University Tennis Courts.

The registration deadline for the Men's Double Tournament is 5 p.m. this Thursday. Women must register by 5 p.m., Thursday July 19. The drawing for first round matches will be posted Friday following the sign-up deadline at the Princeton University Tennis Courts Pagoda.

There is a $2 entry fee for each person and each doubles team is required to bring a new can of balls to its first match.

The Men's Doubles Tournament will start this Saturday and the Ladies Doubles Tournament will start Saturday, July 21, with all matches played at the University Courts. For more information call the YMCA, 924-4825.

PIERSONS ARE WINNER

Of Springdale July 4th Event. Debbie and Kester Pierson won the annual July 4th Firecracker Tournament held at Springdale Golf Club with a low net score of 59.

Audry and Mosey Gates were second with 63, while Jane Shillaber and Arne Booth finished third with 65. Winners of the low gross score were Lon and Bill Millman with 71. Closest to the pin on the second green were Ruth Pettit and Dock Dorian.

The women's tee-to-green tournament held the previous day was won by Kay Conover with a 47½ net. Half of the player's handicap was used. Jean Miller had 61 and Lou Millman, 62.

Earlier, the annual eighteen-nine hole match was won by Shirley Pearce and Eva Mae Wilson with a 75. Jean Mather and Rose Mary Forrey came in second on a match of cards after they had tied Clair Masick and Alana Schwartz, both teams finishing with a 79.

HOBEY BAKER NAMED

To Hockey Hall of Fame. Hobart A. H. "Hobey" Baker, who led Princeton to the national collegiate championship in both 1911 and 1913, was inducted as a charter member into the United States Hockey Hall of Fame on June 21.

Baker was among 25 American born players and coaches who were enshrined in the Hall of Fame's opening day ceremonies. Over 600 special guests were on hand for the program, headed by Governor Wendell Anderson, a former hockey star at the University of Minnesota.

Baker was the first outstanding hockey player developed in the United States. At Princeton he was not only a legend in hockey, but in football as well. He sparked the Tigers to an overall record of 20-3-4 from 1911 to 1913, and a national championship in 1911. He still holds the Princeton record for most points in a season (92).

Early in life while playing at the St. Paul's School for Malcolm K. Gordon, another charter member of the Hall of Fame, Baker developed the art of stick handling and skating for which he was to become nationally famous. His greatest moment came in his final collegiate game when he scored the typing and winning goals to beat Harvard for the national championship.

A leader in every respect, the 5'9", 165 pounder was twice elected captain of the hockey team and once at football.

After graduation, he played for the St. Nicholas Hockey Club. Baker then entered World War I and rose to the rank of captain while flying for the famous United States air squadron, the Lafayette Esquadrille. He was killed in a tragic flying accident just after the war ended.

WIN STREAK ENDS AT 21

Roma Eterna Loses, 9-8. Never mind that four teams are tied for second place with 5-3 records in the Princeton Youth Baseball Association Little League division. The overriding event of the week was the loss by Roma Eterna to Engine Co. 1 — its first in 21 games.

The game was a seesaw battle and not until the final out—a dramatic, running one-handed grab by nine-year old rookie outfielder Peter Grimm of a hard line drive off the bat of John Rosenthal that was headed for open country and a possible tying run — was Engine Co. 1 able to walk off the field with a 9-8 victory.

After winning pitcher Keith Phox had homered in the first to put his team ahead, Roma retaliated with its typical alert baserunning, capitalizing on errors, walks and passed balls to take a 4-1 lead at the end of two innings.

No. 1 got two back in the third on hits by Phox, Mike Nosal and Peter Sharpless, but Roma added two more to keep its lead at three. The top of the fourth was the turning point.

A leadoff single by No. 1's Rob Littel was followed by Al Perone's triple, Brent Robinson's single and Phox's third straight hit — another triple. Then, when Scott Chase and Nosal added sacrifice hits, No. 1 had five runs across.

Roma stayed one run behind when it added a lone run in the fourth on a single by Rosenthal and Matt Kahny's two bagger. Now it was No. 1's turn. It scored what was to be the winning run on Perone's double and John Rad's single.

However, when it came to bat, No. 1 looked as if it was going to put the game out of reach when it loaded the bases with none out. But reliever Mark Adams slammed the door without a run to set the stage for the tense denouement.

Roma applied one turn of the screw when it picked up a run in the bottom of the fifth on a Dave Fitzgerald triple, and when No. 1 failed to score in its half of the last inning, Roma had one more chance to pull it out and preserve its string — the longest in league history.

Phox got the first two batters on strikeouts. Up stepped Rosenthal. His long drive was speared and the hero's mantle instead fell to young Peter Grimm.

Other upsets during the week served to tighten the race, particularly for second place where Post 76, Eagles, Elks and No. 1 are all jammed with identical records. The Eagles split, being routed by Roma, 17-0, and then coming back to rip Engine No. 3, 17-3. In the latter, pitcher Rich Johnson and Chris McDonald both had home runs and triples for the Eagles.

The Elks moved into contention with a pair of wins, defeating Hook & Ladder, 7-5 and Post 76, 4-1. Two strong pitching performances for the victors were fashioned by Chris Wallace and Evan Press.

IASC also won a pair, stopping Post 76 behind its ace pitcher, Dave Sally, and edging Hook & Ladder, 8-7. Luckless H&L has now lost four games by two runs or less and is still looking for that first win.

The standings:

	W.	L.	Pct.

Post 76	5	3	.625

POST 76 SPLITS

In Legion Ball. Princeton Post 76 nipped Hamilton PAL Post 313, 5-4, Saturday and earlier lost, 7-2, to league-leading Ewing 314 in action last week in the Mercer County Legion League. Princeton's record is 7-9.

First baseman John Mooney was the offensive leader for Princeton against Hamilton, batting 4-for-4. After Post 76 managed to overcome an early 3-0 deficit, it entered the final inning tied at 4 all.

Mooney opened the frame with a single, advanced on another single by catcher Chris Crane and scored the winning run on a delayed steal. Gary Leonardo, who walked six and struck out six, was the winning pitcher. Jeff Rohm and George Boccantuso each had two hits of the nine collected off two Hamilton hurlers. Crane had the other.

Earlier, Post 76 was stopped by Ewing, which virtually clinched the championship of the Northern division Monday night with a 7-5 win over Hopewell 339.

Ewing's Fritz Sickels won his sixth straight, giving up just four hits, two by Dave Pone, while striking out six. Ewing collected 10 hits, scoring four runs in the third to erase a 2-0 Princeton lead.

In their first meeting, Princeton had shocked the heavily favored Ewing Club by eking out a 1-3 victory. It was one of only two losses suffered by Ewing which has won 14 so far.

RED TOPS GREEN

In Lacrosse, 15-13. The showdown between unbeaten Red and Green last week in the Summer Lacrosse League produced an action-packed, seesaw battle which Red finally won, 15-13.

INTEREST RATES RAISED By New Jersey National. New Jersey National Bank of Princeton has raised its interest rates on regular savings accounts, Golden Passbook savings accounts and new savings certificates by one-half of 1 percent effective immediately.

Ralph L. Stout, the bank's president, said that under the new rates, regular savings accounts will now earn 5 percent interest compounded daily and Golden Passbook savings accounts will earn 5 1-2 percent interest compounded daily.

New higher interest rates will apply to new savings certificates or to existing savings certificates when they come up for renewal, Mr. Stout continued. Under the new rates, 90 day certificates will earn 5 1-2 percent, 1 year certificates will earn 6 percent and 2 1-2 year certificates will earn 6 1-2 percent.

"It has always been the bank's policy to pay the highest interest rates permitted by Federal regulations," Mr. Stout said. "A change in Federal regulations yesterday made the increase in interest rates possible.

Accordingly, within hours of the change in Federal regulations, we increased our interest rates to the new maximums permitted in keeping with our policy of providing the highest rates for our depositors."

CONTRACT AWARDED To Mathematica. Mathematica, Inc., a Princeton-based research and consulting firm, has announced that final agreements have been reached with the RAND Corporation for first year operations of a proposed five-year Housing Assistance Supply Experiment funded by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Mathematica anticipates gross revenues of more than $1,000,000 during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1974 for its survey design, sampling and project administration activities. Work will be performed through Mathematica's Urban Opinion Surveys Division.

The experiment is designed to provide policy makers with reliable information on the potential effects of direct subsidy upon the housing market. Several thousand poor and near-poor families in two metropolitan sites will receive monthly payments for use in renting or buying housing. Landlord, tenant, and homeowner responses to the program will be measured. Results of the study will be used in conjunction with findings from other housing experiments sponsored by HUD to provide the basis for a full scale analysis of potential national housing assistance programs.

Mathematica is an authority in performing large scale field experiments. The Housing Assistance Supply Experiment is the fifth large scale social science experiment conducted by the company. Other studies concern issues of welfare reform and health care finance.

Sports In Princeton

After taking a 6-2 first period lead, Green managed only one goal in the second while Red was adding five. The half ended 7-7. Both teams pushed across three goals in the third period. In the climactic final period, Red outscored Green five to three.

Four players accounted for all but one Red goal. Al Fitzpatrick had five, Jim Kopliner four, Chip Hall three and Noel Belli, two. Pur Green, Jim Wharton, Jon Moore and Mike Heitz all had two goals. Phil Mathews, Kevin Woods, Mark Cleary and Stuart Frazer added single goals.

Navy won its first over winless Blue 10-5, led by Brian Sullivan's three goals. Mace Mohrmann, Pete Donaldson and Bob Weisbecker all had two goals each for Navy and Bob Turgeon one.

Dave Miller, two goals, and Joe Lapara, Craig Singer and Dave DeMauro accounted for Blue's scoring.

In an all-star lacrosse contest played Sunday the Princeton All Stars defeated Fairlawn, 8-3. Mark Tullis scored three goals for the victors, while Kevin Woods, Pete Miller, Jim Kopliner, Craig Singer and Alan Fitzpatrick each scored one goal.

The same two teams will play again Sunday morning at 11 at the Peddie School field in Hightstown.

37 AREA BOYS COMPETE In Middle States Championships. The 1973 Middle States Boys Championships came to a successful conclusion Friday, under the guidance of draw chairman and referee Joe Diefenbach, assisted by Vicki Flournoy and Jeff Oakes.

Thirty-seven area juniors competed in a strong field of 128 in the 16's and under and 63 in the 18's and under. Princeton area players were: David Loy, Jon Kraut, Randy Thomas, Quarles, Malcolm Phil Ebersole, Lloyd Dixon, Jay Lapidus, Martin Goldberg, Rhett Schiffman, David Haggerty, Dan Schulman, Cyril Quinn, Chris Miller, Mark Turrant and Dan Aronovic.

Also, Keith Uslskin, Jay Lapidus, Nick Van de Walle, Thomas Quarles, Malcolm Benjamin, Robert Andresen, Hugo Walter, Simeon Hutner, Jon Silverman, Jon Starr, Dwight Wilson, James Graaskamp, Brian Reilly, Jeff Lyle, Michael Rose, Andre Eichenberger, Alex Davidson, Dan Amarel, Steve Ebersole, David Bowen, Nick Heller, Fred Berkelhammer.

The 18 singles matches progressed according to seeding through the quarter finals. In an exciting semis upset, a tense three set match was fought. Fourth seeded Martin Sturgess of Flemington, N.J. defeated top seeded Lloyd Dixon from Lawrenceville, 7-5, 4-6, 6-4. Sturgess then went on to defeat 3rd seed Flagg Flanagan of North Penn Academy, Pennsylvania 6-4, 6-3 in the finals. He dominated the second set, leading 5-0 at one time.

The 16's also had their share of excitement. Second seed Harrison Lauer exhibiting a near backboard consistency easily defeated fourth seeded Rhett Schiffman in the semis 6-1, 6-2. The match was characterized by long baseline rallies.

In the other 16 semis spectators were treated to a tremendous match between first seed Martin Goldberg of Lawrenceville and unseeded Greg Ewanizky from Manasquan Park. Although Ewanizky decisively held the second set, Goldberg came through 6-2, 2-6, 6-3, finally breaking Greg's winning streak. Goldberg continued his wins by defeating Lauer 6-1, 7-5 in the finals of this event.

The Princeton team of Randy Thomas and David Loy progressed three rounds in the 18 doubles matches, upsetting the fourth seeded duo Mark Barenberg of Malvern, Penna., and Ken Waldman of Lafayette Hill, Penna. Thomas and Loy finally fell to the semi-finalists pair of Stailer and Nieser.

The 18 doubles finals saw first seed Lloyd Dixon and Jon Kraut of Trenton baw to third seed Todd Lunny of State College, Penna. and his partner Flagg Flanaghan of North Penn Tennis Academy, Penna. in a "fight to the finish" match, 4-6, 7-5, 7-5.

Third seeded partners Harrison Lauer of Pittsburgh, Pa. and Karl Stark of Carnegie, Penna. triumphed over 2nd seeded Princeton's Jay Lapidus and Lawrenceville's Rhett Schiffman in the finals of the 16 doubles event 7-5, 6-0. Other Princeton doubles playing in this category were: Nick Van de Walle and Alex Davidson seeded fourth; Steve Baicker; Barky Penick and Larry Fong; Dan Amarel and Steve Ebersole; Andre Eichenberger and Jeff Lyle; Simeon Hunter and Hugo Walter; Chris Miller and Dan Schulman; Michael Rose and Derek Straut.

Eichenberger and Lyle moved into the quarter finals losing to first seeds Martin Goldberg of Lawrenceville and Melanie Levine of State College, Penna. by 6-3, 6-4.

Simultaneously, a successful consolation tournament was held. As with the entire tournament, these matches also ran smoothly and on schedule. Princeton youngsters Andre Eichenberger and Jeff Lyle were seeded third and fourth respectively with the one and two spots held by Robert Levitt of Pittsburgh and Cyril Quinn of Trenton.

Princeton entries were: Barky Penick, Brian Reilly, Michael Rose, Simeon Hutner, Alex Davidson, Fred Berkelhammer, Dwight Wilson, Malcolm Benjamin, Hugo Walter, Jon Silverman, Jamie Graaskamp. Alex Davidson fared well reaching the semis and losing to 2nd seeded winn 6-4, 6-1. The consolation 16 finals matches were between Quinn & Levitt with Levitt emerging victorious 6-2, 6-3.

Charles Wightman represented Princeton in the 18 consolations, dropping to the second round to the eventual winner Marc Granetz. Granetz defeated Keith 6-4, 6-4 to take home the consolation trophy.

The Sportsman's Trophy was awarded to Jon Kraut of Trenton.

FORM FOLLOWS FUNCTION

Architect planned for a large and active family, this unusual house is, above all, functional. There is privacy for everyone and space for everything. Built-ins (decorative and practical shelves and storage) are everywhere, wear-resistant paneling covers most of the walls. The spacious interior includes a pretty living room with fireplace, large open kitchen and dining room combination, study (or bedroom), 4 bedrooms and 2 baths, a two room suite plus bath with outside entrance, large recreation room, superbly lighted big workshop, and basement laundry and freezer room. A brick-walled terrace, decorated with summering-out house plants, is shaded by some of the most beautiful trees in this town famed for its trees! They, along with the fenced swimming pool (complete with bathhouse) are lighted for nighttime enjoyment. A peaceful location in a lovely part of Edgerstoune enhances the appeal of this highly liveable house. Offered at $119,500

Delightful small estate just west of Princeton. Unique and fascinating one-story 5 bedroom, 5 bath house with 7 fireplaces! Beautifully planned and planted. Tennis court, garage apartment, outbuildings. 12 lovely acres.

Just reduced to $200,000!

Draine REALTORS

CHARLES H. DRAINE CO. July 12, 1973

A quiet cul-de-sac for country atmosphere in Princeton's Western Section yet easily accessible to downtown business and cultural activities. The house is of substantial red brick, traditional in appearance but most contemporary in plan, well-suited to entertainment and sociability. The kitchen and house-keeping facilities are particularly unusual and overlook a terrace and the beautiful grounds. Offered now at $190,000

A cool centrally air conditioned ranch house, expanded from its original size to roominess for the larger family. There are five bedrooms and three baths. In convenient West Windsor. $57,000

A spacious yet practical seven acre estate in the Western Section of Princeton Township. Ideal for the family that appreciates privacy with the open space of lawns and gardens. The house is contemporary in flavor. Four bedrooms and two and one half baths. Offered at $175,000

A superbly designed rather formal house of pink brick and slate grey roof hidden behind a walled entrance court on one of Princeton's finest residential roads. Though only 20 years old, this house contains elegant features usually found only in the last century. The gardens, the pool, the pool house and the several spacious terraces are of a quality seldom being offered today. $325,000

If you decide to buy an older house, make certain it is in good condition. Check to see what is in need of repair or replacement. Check roof, walls, ceilings and floors. Remember, there are certain advantages to buying existing homes. The price of land, labor, and materials has increased steadily through the years, and an older home can perhaps provide you with more for your money. Weigh this against possible repairs that will be needed. Don't disregard the possibility, however, of purchasing a newly constructed house and the advantages it offers!

Take advantage of the experience and knowledge of those at WALTER B. HOWE INC., 1 Palmer Sq. (924-0095), Pennington (737-3301) and W. Windsor (799-1100). Open 9-9. Sat. 9-5. Sun. 1-5. Relocation Service. Homes, all sizes, shapes and prices.

HELPFUL HINT:
There are two to three times as many existing homes on the market as there are new homes.

CALL US, PLEASE WE HAVE HOMES THAT CAME IN TOO LATE TO ADVERTISE!

A BEAUTIFUL BUCKS COUNTY FARM HOUSE RIGHT IN THE VILLAGE OF LAWRENCEVILLE! Here is a truly superb reproduction of a Pennsylvania stone and clapboard colonial on a quiet cul-de-sac just a short walk to the Village Bakery. Only one year young and in fantastic condition, with five bedrooms and two and a half baths. Both the gracious living room and the comfortable family room have fireplaces. Inviting dining room and a marvellous eat-in kitchen, too. Numerous extras include: full basement, air conditioning, inter-com, triple track storms & screens, carpeting, etc., etc. $133,000

JUST DOWN ON MOORE STREET, in a super convenient location, there's a centrally air-conditioned two-story frame colonial in rather nice shape! Living room/fireplace/dining room/bar; new eat-in kitchen with stove, refrigerator and dishwasher; panelled den; powder room and a new laundry room with washer/dryer. POSTAL PATRON

Any drug which requires a prescription also requires the prescriber's authorization for refills. This authorization may be given at the time of prescribing.

If your doctor indicates refill "as needed" or "ad lib" on your prescription, but does not indicate a definite time period or specific number of refills, this is now interpreted to mean ONE YEAR from the date of the original prescription.

Other prescriptions may be refilled only five times or within limit of six months, whichever comes first. The prescriber has no control over this, nor does your pharmacist.

Certain prescriptions are like checks; they must be in writing, and can be filled only once. You cash a check only once!

Recent regulations have changed the categories of certain drugs to a more restricted status. Prescriptions which were formerly refillable may have been transferred into one of these restricted classes.

Certain categories of drugs must be dispensed in a "child-resistant" container. If you find these inconvenient, you may sign a release in your pharmacy and receive your prescriptions in standard containers.

A copy of a prescription transferred from one pharmacy to another does not constitute authorization for the dispensing of your prescription, but is for reference only. The pharmacist must get approval to dispense the prescription from the doctor, even though the original prescription was refillable.

This is an attempt to make the consumer more aware of certain regulations which affect the filling and refilling of prescriptions and must serve as guidelines for our professional conduct. Should you have any question please call The Thorne Pharmacy. The pleasure is ours.
